of Czar's Armies Reported to Have Temporarily Assumed Lenin's Supreme Authority Over Soviets,

MILITARY COUP IN MOSCOW RUMORED

Others of Peoples' Commissaries Are Reported to Have Been Overthrown in Statement Printed by London Daily Telegraph.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 19.—Gen. Alexis A. Brusiloff, former Commander in Chief of Russian armies under the Imperial regime, has for the time being, virtually assumed the supreme authority formerly wielded in the Russian Soviet Government by Nikolai Lenin and other people's commissaries, according to a statement printed this morning by the Daily Telegraph.

This would seem to confirm a recent dispatch to the Associated Press that military authorities in Russia were about to assume the powers formerly in the hands of civilian officials of the Bolshevik regime in Moscow. Rumors that a military coup had been sprung at the Russian capital have been current for several days.

Brusiloff's Rise First Told by Post-Dispatch Correspondent.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, May 19.—Moscow's wireless was silent for three days last week following the capture of Kiev by the Poles and observers in Europe believed it was due to some upheaval against the Bolsheviks. The information received in London probably explains the mysterious silence on the part of the Bolshevik leaders.

The dramatic rise of Gen. Brusiloff to the head of the Bolshevik armies was first told by Arno Dosch-Pleut, the Post-Dispatch and New York World correspondent, in a dispatch from Warsaw, Jan. 28. It was declared that Brusiloff was put in power by Trotsky for a contemplated offensive against Poland, and that the General's family was being held as hostages against the success of his enterprise.

It was pointed out at the time in Pleut's dispatch that whatever the motive that actuated the General in allowing his services to be enlisted, Bolshevik leaders had resurrected a military genius whose prowess might well bring apprehension to any military force that might oppose him.

His adherence to the Soviet regime was interesting, in that he was commander of the army under Kerensky which struck the last blow at the German front. His influence had been powerful in the overthrow of the Czar, and he tried to uphold the Kerensky Government and Constituent Assembly selected under it. When the Bolsheviks came into power, Brusiloff was deprived of his command. That he was not put out of the way as many other Generals were, is a surprising fact. For a long time he completely disappeared from the news.

The clue to his reappearance with the rise of the Soviet regime is probably to be found in the fact that Trotsky capitalized "national sentiment" and had been turning the fight along national lines, thus winning for the Red army many troops which really were non-Bolshevik and the majority of their officers.

It was Brusiloff's brilliant strategy on the southern Russian front that almost brought disaster to the Austrians and Germans in 1916. When he struck his great succession of blows before Lufak and below the Dniester, with a force little larger than the armies opposed to him—as Ludendorff has testified—he made an attack in July and, in the course of three weeks, had smashed the whole opposing line. In Volynia, taken almost 400,000 prisoners and rocked the enemy front for 600 miles. So dangerous was the situation that the Austrian army was turned over to Ludendorff. Had not the pre-arranged court at Petrograd halted reinforcements and supplies at the critical moment, Brusiloff might have won the greatest single victory in the war.

PRICE-CUTTING RESULT OF TIGHTENING OF CREDIT

Federal Reserve Board's Policy of Restricting Financial Accommodations Affecting All Lines of Non-Essentials.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 19.—Pursuant to their pledge to the Federal Reserve Board, leading banking interests here today extended their campaign designed to deflate credits and reduce the present high commodity prices.

In the financial district this policy already has been effective in reducing speculative loans against securities to the extent of hundreds of millions of dollars in the last fortnight.

Banks in the wholesale dry goods and general merchandise districts have been proceeding along the same lines, and the pressure exerted by those institutions is said to be directly responsible for the wave of price cutting in many lines of retail trade.

Downtown banks are reported to have advised drastic curtailment of loans to merchants who for any reason fail to comply with the Government's deflation program.

Importers and other dealers in the more luxurious articles of apparel, as well as manufacturers of jewelry, silverware and other so-called nonessentials, are said to have received word from their banks that only the most moderate financial accommodations may be expected at this time.

Conforming to the attitude of the Federal Reserve Board at Washington, the Federal Reserve Bank here today announced an increase of the discount rate on prime commercial bills for 30 days of from 5 to 5 1/2 per cent. The rate for 60-day bills was advanced from 5 1/2 to 6 per cent.

BOND ITEM FOR MORGUE CARRIED BY 9 VOTES

Official Count Brings Successful Items to Six, Calling for $3,793,000 Issue.

The official count of ballots in the recent bond issue election disclosed today that item No. 15, which was for the construction of a new morgue at a cost of $68,000, had carried by nine votes. The unofficial count showed that the item apparently had been defeated by 13 votes.

The vote, as shown by the revision, was 42,233 for the item and 21,562 against it. Two-thirds of the total votes cast for the item, 64,835, was 42,224. As unofficially reported at the close of the polls, the vote was 42,194 "yes" and 21,616 "no."

The total of the bonds authorized now becomes $3,793,000 instead of $3,725,000, the number of items successful in the election comes six instead of five. The other successful items were: Elimination of grade crossings, $965,000; insane and hospital farm, $1,100,000; maintenance of traffic thoroughfares, $260,000; new municipal electric lighting system, $1,900,000. The total of bonds voted upon was 18 items aggregating $24,000,000.

The eighth will be by Lieutenant-Commander Henry Reuterdahl, distinguished painter of naval scenes. It will be 10x17 feet and likely will depict some modern naval scene. He will receive $2500.

The other contract is for a panel 20x49 feet which will be in the rear of the House chamber facing the speaker's rostrum. It will be painted by Charles Hoffbauer of Richmond, Va., who will receive $934.77. The subject has not been selected.

BRITAIN TO USE ALL FORCES NECESSARY TO PACIFY IRELAND

Won't Hesitate to Ask Country for More Men, C. J. Needham, Birkenhead Tells Lords.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 19.—The Government's policy, whether the struggle be short or long, would be to employ the whole available forces and resources of the kingdom to restore law and order in Ireland, Baron Birkenhead, the Lord Chancellor, told the House of Lords today. It would be the Government's aim, he said, to render utterly impossible the existing campaign aiming at secession.

Considerable military reinforcements already have been sent to Ireland, the Lord Chancellor stated, and more would be sent as required. He declared that, in the existing military forces were insufficient, the Government would hesitate at little to ask the country for more as it hesitated in the late war.

Several shoe dealers also announced discounts of one-fifth of the selling price. One exclusive ready-to-wear establishment, which is selling its stock at figures from 30 to 50 per cent below the market price, in an advertisement advises its customers to buy at "the absurd discounts being offered in Omaha and nowhere else on earth."

New Designs for Men to Sell at $10. to $15 on Display at Garment Convention.

Suits of cotton worsted fabrics and khaki, also a cotton cloth designed to meet the need for low-priced clothing of good appearance for business and professional men, expressed recently in the "overall club" situation, are on display in the exhibit hall of the International Association of Garment Manufacturers at the Hotel Statler. The suits are to sell at $10 to $15 retail. Makers of heavy garments are expected to put them on the market by autumn.

The worsted suits are of black and white stripes, pencil stripes and pepper and salt pattern. The khaki is that used for army uniforms.

The suits were designed by Harry Simon and brought to the convention by his partner, Charles White, both of the staff of the Clothing Trade Journal, published in New York.

The garments are in several weights, to conform to the seasons and are in conservative styles of the day.

Prices quoted, the designers say, allow good wages for factory employees, and a reasonable margin of profit for both manufacturer and retailer.

These garments have been designed to meet the need expressed in the overall club agitation," said White. "No business or professional man wants to wear overalls. Yet he wants something cheaper than the $100 standard which has been established by tailors and makers of woolen clothes. These cotton suits will make a nice appearance, give good wear and meet the need. We have worn something cheaper than this, and are giving the idea to the trade and the public, in the hope that it will aid to relieve the strain on pocketbooks."

A line of models of children's clothing, to sell at $4 and $7 a suit, is also in preparation, Simon said.

LONGER SKIRT FASHION DECREE VIEWED AS HIGH PRICE PRETEXT

Department of Justice Urges Women to Wear Old Clothes Until Prices Are Reduced.

COLUMBUS, O., May 19.—Fash- ion's decree that women's skirts and coats must be longer, and that the National Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Association in Cleveland, last week, is looked upon as a pretext to keep up the price of women's clothing by the Department of Justice, and the call has been sent out for women to fight the proposed change by wearing old clothes.

In a telegram to Mrs. W. H. Sharp of Columbus, State Chairman of Women's Activities of the Department of Justice, Edith C. Strauss of the Washington office urges women to lay aside their spring and winter clothing "with determination to wear them next fall and winter unless there is a radical drop in the cost of women's garments. The telegram concludes:

"The women of this country can prevent this increase in prices as well as being about an actual reduction in prices by their continued sane and conservative buying. They should wear old clothes until prices are reduced."

D. S. C. PINNED ON DENIM BLOUSE OF HERO OF ARGONNE

E. I. Shallert Declines Elaborate Ceremony, Saying He Won Honor "Without Band."

A man in overalls today walked into the army recruiting office at Third and Olive streets and said he came to claim a distinguished service cross which that office was holding for him. The man proved himself to be Edward I. Shallert, 1921 Warren street, formerly a private in the Medical Detachment of the Thirtieth Infantry, Third Division, now stationed at Camp Pike.

He could not be prevailed upon to consent to a formal ceremony of decoration at Jefferson Barracks, saying, "No, I didn't win it to the music of a band, and I'd rather receive it quietly."

So in the presence of a few officers on duty at the recruiting station, Lieutenant-Colonel James L. Peatross, representing Col. John H. Parker, pinned the D. S. C. on the breast of the hero of Argonne.

Shallert was a litter bearer with the Thirtieth Infantry, and in the Argonne Forest in October, 1918, continued to carry his wounded comrades to the rear for several hours after he himself was seriously wounded, stopping only when he dropped into a shell hole from loss of blood and fatigue.

Mrs. Wiebeck, the mother, mortgaged her cows to come to Chicago and assist the State, she said on her arrival here. She said she had a valid and the mother said she had done all the spring plowing and other farm work with the assistance of four sons, the oldest of whom is eight years old.

AUTO TAGS MUST BE HUNG WHERE THEY CAN BE SEEN

Police to Arrest Owners Whose Li-

Automobile license tags must be displayed where they can be seen day and night, at the front and rear of machines, Chief of Police O'Brien announced today. He said that policemen would be ordered, one week from today, to begin arresting car owners who do not display their tags in the clear and conspicuous fashion which in other cases the State requires.

"I told him I would tell his sister," Miss Zimmerman said, "and he said, 'If you do I'll blow your brains out.'"

Dr. Zimmerman came to Springfield again in March, she said, to attend the wedding of his cousin, Ida Zimmerman. He called her up, she said, to tell her he was coming up. It was on Sunday morning, and she was still in bed. Dr. Zimmerman sent her two sisters, Ethel and Annie, out of the room.

Dr. Zimmerman returned to West-avenue, where he was then stationed, without seeing her again, she said, and not receiving any reply to letters sent, she telephoned him. She asked when he was coming to see her again, and he replied that he didn't intend to see her any more.

Witness then told of the attempt she had made to take her own life. It was the day after her quarrel with Dr. Zimmerman, in January. After she had put the children to bed, she said, she shut the door of her bedroom and turned on the gas. The next she knew her sister, Ethel, came and shook her.

"I saw him with other women," Dr. Zimmerman left the service and returned to Springfield last August. Witness said he frequently with other women, and these attentions, which she believed should have been bestowed on her, made her jealous. On one occasion witness saw Dr. Zimmerman dining with a married woman. She called him on the telephone next day. When she said, "This is Jennie," the doctor said, "Forget it," and hung up the receiver.

About this time witness seriously considered having Dr. Zimmerman arrested. She bought the revolver a few days before the shooting. Witness could not make Dr. Zimmerman stop his unwelcome advances, in which he persisted despite their many quarrels.

The day of the shooting, she said, she started out to visit her younger brother, who was ill in her mother's home. "I saw Dr. Zimmerman in the automobile with two girls I didn't know," she said.

"The machine turned into Perry street and stopped near a store, and one of the girls got out and went into the store. I went over to the automobile in which Dr. Zimmerman sat talking with the other girl."

"I said, 'Can't I please talk with you?' and he said, 'Yes, let's walk over this way.' He got out of the car, a rise of 3 of a foot.

STILL LOVES MAN SHE SHOT ON STREET

Testifies She Frequently Saw Him in Company With Other Women and He Rebuked Her for Protests.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 19.—Looking straight into the eyes of Judge Brown, Miss Jennie G. Zimmerman testified yesterday that she shot and killed her cousin, Dr. Henry Zimmerman, when he threatened to "blow her brains out" if the story of their relations reached Miss Sadie Feldman, whom, the defense contends, Zimmerman hoped to marry.

The revolver was bought, Miss Zimmerman declared, solely to protect herself from the repeated attacks of Dr. Zimmerman, who, while refusing to marry the defendant, insisted that their relations should continue. Miss Zimmerman told of an attempt at suicide. The confession on which the Commonwealth issues its case was made immediately after the shooting and signed at the instance of the police while she was still dazed, witness said.

Not the least notable part of Miss Zimmerman's testimony, which has occupied three days, was the self-accusation of the young defendant under cross-examination. She met the District Attorney's questions with direct responses. At no time did she attempt to parry.

Dr. Zimmerman was married to his first army furlough early in January, 1919, she said. She was in bed with influenza. He came in unexpectedly and they had talked for some time. Because of her illness, she said, he forced his attentions upon her. He told her he hoped he would soon be out of the service and at home.

"I threatened to kill her," Dr. Zimmerman testified, "and she said, 'If you would be married,' she said, 'and he said, 'No.' He left after midnight."

A short time afterward she met him on the street and he rebuked her for calling him up, "If you keep on bothering me," she said he told her, "I'll have you sent to Northampton."

"I told him I would tell his sister," Miss Zimmerman said, "and he said, 'If you do I'll blow your brains out.'"

Dr. Zimmerman came to Springfield again in March, she said, to attend the wedding of his cousin, Ida Zimmerman. He called her up, she said, to tell her he was coming up. It was on Sunday morning, and she was still in bed. Dr. Zimmerman sent her two sisters, Ethel and Annie, out of the room.

"It must be thoroughly understood that the Board can not and will not undertake to hear any disputes or controversies except those which it is authorized by law to hear and cannot and will not hear the application of parties who are acting in disregard of the law and who are not complying with the law and the rules of the Board."

Court Puts Up to Public Service Commission Request Which Wells Says Would Mean 10-Cent Fare.

INCREASES WOULD TOTAL $8,525,000

Body Which Will Hear Plea of Carmen Has Power to Advance Fare Rate and Has Previously Done So.

By the Associated Press.
ST. LOUIS, May 19.—The Missouri Public Service Commission for arbitration, under an order issued today by Federal Judge Faris.

The Public Service Commission, if it should grant increased wages, has authority to order increased fares. Any increase in wages likely would result in an increased fare, the increase in fare being in proportion to the percentage of wage increase granted. The present fare is 7 cents.

Judge Faris in his order, issued on petition of the receiver, also made an express proviso that the Public Service Commission is to consider not only the demands of members of the street car men's union but a re-adjustment of wages and working conditions of all employees of the street car men's union.

New Scale Demanded.

The demands of the men are for a pay schedule of 75, 80 and 85 cents an hour, according to length of employment. The present schedule is 50, 55 and 60 cents an hour and was established last year by the Public Service Commission, acting as a board of arbitration.

The receiver also is a demand that all runs shall be continuous eight-hour runs, and that men working less than eight hours shall receive eight hours' pay. These demands were made by the local branch of the street car men's union.

In his petition for the order Receiver Wells outlined the formation of the street car men's union in January, 1918, and told how the demands for higher wages made April 1, 1919, were submitted to the Public Service Commission and how additional demands were made April 1 last.

Fare Increased Previously.

The receiver described the demands as being a request for radical increases and said they were accompanied by a request for radical changes in conditions for employment.

He told of replying to the men and declining to meet their demands, after which the men suggested that the questions at issue be left to the Public Service Commission for arbitration.

As to the scope of the arbitration the receiver in his petition said he believed it would be to the best interests of all concerned to leave this question to the Public Service Commission and to permit a re-adjustment of wages and working conditions of nonmembers as well as of members of the street car men's union. In his reply to the union's demands the receiver stated that increased wages would necessitate increased fares. When the Public Service Commission increased the street car men's wages before it also increased the fare from 5 to 7 cents. Later, upon a showing of the earnings of the company, it reduced the fare to 7 cents.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, May 19.—Aviators and aeronauts taking part in the proposed around-the-world aerial Derby will not be permitted to take advantage of the roundness of the earth and lay their courses far to the north. They must fly between the fifteenth and sixteenth parallels of latitude, and the prize will be given the flier who covers the longest distance, according to rules laid down by the committee in charge of the race.

Aviators will be allowed to start from any point they choose, providing they return to the starting point, and will have a year in which to complete their flight. Airplanes of all kinds, dirigibles and balloons, are eligible.

Louis D. Beaumont, who heads a commission sent here by the Aero Club of America, is conferring with members of the International Aeronautic Federation, and the organization for directing the great flight is rapidly assuming form.

At a luncheon yesterday Beaumont presented Count de la Vaux, chairman of the federation, with a check for 100,000 francs as a gift of American aviation to the relief fund of the Aero Club of France.

HARDING URGES BANKERS TO STOP LONG-TIME LOANS

Elimination of Unnecessary Borrowing Stated as Reserve System's Policy for Deflation of Finances.

DROP IN PRODUCTION MOST SERIOUS ISSUE

Chairman of Reserve Board Asserts Advancing Prices Will Bring Crisis Unless More Money Is Released.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 19.—Curtailing of long term loans covering non-essential operations and discouragement of unnecessary borrowings of all kinds will be the foundation of the Federal Reserve system's new policy, designed to deflate the national finances. American bankers have pledged themselves to co-operate with the reserve board in the effort to carry out the plan.

Governor Harding of the board is of the opinion that liquidation of superfluous loans will go far toward reducing the present inflation. Expansion of banking credit due to war requirements, he told the delegates at a conference yesterday, amounted to $11,000,000,000, while money in circulation had increased about $1,000,000,000 during the war period.

The slowing down of "industrial effort," as indicated by decreased production in important lines, represented the most unsatisfactory element in the country's economic problem, he said. The government's efforts, he explained, would be toward a normal and healthy liquidation, "without curtailment of essential industries, and so far as possible, without disturbing commerce."

"Country Approaching Crisis." "It is evident," Harding said, "that the country cannot continue to advance prices and wages, to call production, to expand credit and attempt to enrich itself by nonproductive operations and transactions without fostering discontent and radicalism, and that such a course, if persisted in, will eventually bring on a real crisis."

Harding said that "everything must be done" to expedite the release of money in "frozen loans" and in commodities held either for speculative purposes or because of lack of transportation and urged bankers to use the utmost discrimination in granting new loans. Reports laid before the conference by the Federal Reserve board, directed by Governor Harding, and by a committee representing the American Bankers' Association were to the effect that inflation has continued to expand at a rapid rate since the Victory Loan last May.

"Harding declared to be one of the 'disquieting features' of the present situation. He asserted that even the great expansion of banking credit, 'probably attributable to the war,' was not alarming or excessive when viewed from the standpoint of 'war necessity,' and when it was recalled that the government placed $25,000,000,000 in Liberty Bonds in the same period."

"Must Reduce Margin." "Progress toward the restoration of normal relationship between the volume of goods and the volume of credit must be made by reducing credit more rapidly than production is diminished, or by increasing production at a greater rate than credit is expanded. If it should prove impracticable in the existing circumstances to increase essential production, then we must, through economy in consumption, and through moderation in the use of credit check the tendency toward a further widening of the margin between goods and credit."

The Federal Reserve Bank, Harding declared, could do much in the direction of curtailing credits of member banks by informing them of the normal amounts they could borrow from the reserve institution. He asserted that this would compel the individual banker to examine carefully all applications for loans.

No small measure of the difficulty in the present situation were attributed by Harding to the nationwide freight congestion. He added, pointedly, however, that the freight issue was not responsible for profiting. The board expects to deal with that in another way," he said, without stating what methods were under consideration.

The freight jam was discussed at length, and resolutions with respect to means of bringing it to an end were adopted.

St. Louis Bankers Not Taking Joint Action on Harding's Plan.

Inquiry today by the Post-Dispatch among St. Louis bankers as to whether they had taken and concerted action along the line of Gov. Harding's recommendation to discourage non-essential borrowing disclosed that they had not made any such joint move but that they intended to co-operate individually.

James J. Wade, president of the Mercantile Trust Co., said it has been generally understood among bankers here, for some time, that heavy loans and investments and habitual borrowing should be discouraged until the present period of inflation is over.

It has been understood that we take action as individuals to co-operate with the Reserve Board," he said, "but no formal meeting has

STUDENTS PUT COW IN THE LIBRARY OF M'KENDREE COLLEGE

She Remained in Classical Stable From Saturday Night Until Late Sunday.

When the students of McKendree College, Lebanon, Ill., assembled at chapel this morning, they expected to hear announcement of the expulsion of four students who are said to be the ones who placed a cow in the college library Saturday night, where she remained until Sunday night. No announcement was made. All of these students were assembled in the chapel at 1:30 p. m. yesterday. Seven of their number were ordered to another building, where they were questioned by Earl Chamberlain, a Lebanon attorney, and a St. Louis detective. Three are understood to have established their innocence. Among the other four are two who are related to members of the students who were kept in the chapel until 4 o'clock.

It was reported today that a meeting of the faculty would be held this afternoon to decide what punishment should be inflicted.

President G. E. McCannan said today that the investigation had not been concluded and that it would be for the faculty to determine what punishment should be inflicted.

An inquiry is also to be made into the theft of the bell clapper from the Methodist Church Saturday night.

been held nor do I know whether one will be held.

"At present, when buildings costs are so great and when prices are high for any form of investment, it is deemed unwise to furnish loans for heavy investments of any kind at existing costs. This, of course, does not apply to loans for the ordinary course of an established business but to loans desired for expansion purposes or new investments."

"Investment under the present inflated conditions could require too high an earning power on the capital to make it profitable if there should come a decline in the general markets."

Walter W. Smith, vice president of the First National Bank, said that in case a meeting was called of the Federal Advisory Board of this district, to confer with the national board on the point that there would undoubtedly be the heartiest cooperation by St. Louis bankers.

Frank O. Watts is representative on the board from this district.

Breckinridge Jones, president of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., is president of the Clearing House Association. Vice President William G. Lackey, in the absence of Jones this morning, said he had not heard of a special meeting being in prospect as bankers here generally took a conservative view in the matter of loans at this time.

The credit situation in this section is reflected in the last statements of the St. Louis Clearing House Association and of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis. Between the government bank call of Feb. 28 and May 4, the deposits in the local banks and trust companies decreased $29,991,500; loans and discounts increased $144,100 and cash and exchange decreased $6,426,711.

The local Federal Reserve Bank in its statement at close of business May 14 showed $44,855,900 worth of paper accepted from members in this district had been rediscounted with or sold to other Federal Reserve banks.

SHORTAGE OF CARS MAKES THE COAL SITUATION SERIOUS

Tens of Thousands of Miners Reported Idle and Public "Likely to Be Without Fuel Next Winter."

RAILROADS BLAMED FOR THE CONDITION

Ohio Miners' President Asserts Roads Are Unjust and Unfair in the Distribution of Coal Cars.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Transfer of 20,000 box cars from Eastern territory to lines west of Chicago and a corresponding movement of 30,000 coal cars from the West to the East was recommended to the Interstate Commerce Commission today by a committee of railroad executives as an immediate necessity toward breaking the freight jam.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 19.—A grave crisis, "involving the industrial life of the country," has resulted from failure of soft coal operators to obtain an adequate car supply, the National Coal Association declared last night, in a general survey based on reports from members in many sections.

The United Mine Workers of America, also in a statement quoted by the Associated Press, said the Ohio miners, said that unless something was done immediately to relieve the car situation the public would find itself without coal next winter.

Responsibility for present conditions, Moore charges, "rests squarely on the railroads and their unjust and unfair discrimination in the distribution of coal cars."

The coal association said persistent efforts of operators to obtain relief have been unavailing, that the shortage of open top cars in the coal fields ran 50 to 65 per cent below normal and that not since the days just preceding America's entry in the war has the country been threatened with "such a paralysis of industries."

Car Problem Grows Worse.

"The soft coal operators for weeks have asked the Interstate Commerce Commission, the commission on the service of the American Railroad Association, the railroad executives and Congress to do what they can to give the mines sufficient cars," the association statement said. "Instead of relief, however, the car supply problem, aggravated by the recent railroad strike, has rapidly become worse."

"The inadequacy of the supply of the open cars to carry coal, owners of many mines east of the Mississippi River have been forced to run their mines only one or two days a week, instead of full time. This has resulted in a shortage of coal already seriously affecting the operations of industrial plants in the Middle West and in the East."

Speaking for the mine workers, Moore said they are assigning a full supply of coal cars to those mines with which they have contracts for coal and refusing to supply thousands of other mines so that the needs of the public might be filled."

"This is wholly unfair and we believe it is a violation of the Esch-Cummins railroad law," he said. "Tens of thousands of coal miners are out of employment because the roads refuse to supply cars to mines on an equitable distributive basis."

Officials of the American Railroad Association predicted a "regular and continuous movement" of empty cars within a short period, but the association's car service committee warned that the demands for cars continued to increase and that the allocation of equipment should be made with utmost care to avoid further jam at gateways.

Figures for the last two weeks show a slight decrease in the number of loaded cars awaiting movement, but the decrease was so small as to be regarded as negligible. It served, however, to indicate to those seeking solution to the traffic problem that the jam soon might be broken.

Labor conditions, described as "extremely unfavorable" by the Interstate Commerce Commission, have seriously handicapped the work of clearing terminals in many communities.

State railway and public service commissions, in response to the commission's appeal, have turned over to the Federal agency their forces of inspectors, who are working actively at all important terminals and gateways.

The commission, in announcing the movement of empty cars, did not issue specific general orders, as had been expected, while the equipment listed upon as giving a true picture of the railroads' condition today.

General Pablo Gonzales Favored for Provisional President of Mexico

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, May 17.—HEZEQUIAS GONZALEZ, President of Mexico is practically assured, according to information secured by the correspondent from an unofficial but thoroughly reliable source.

With Ygnacio Bonillas, former Ambassador to the United States, in hiding in the jungles of Vera Cruz, with President Carranza and his cabinet, Gen. Gonzales of Sunday announcing his retirement as a candidate in the presidential election, July 1, it is said that a canvass of the members of the National Congress now in Mexico by the Gonzales leaders showed almost unanimous sentiment in favor of Gonzales for President.

Gov. Adolfo de la Huerta, as head of the Liberal Revolutionary party, has summoned Congress to meet in extraordinary session May 24 to choose a Provisional President.

Printed in the Post-Dispatch, have been grouped and issued in pamphlet form. Any reader of the Post-Dispatch who is interested in the subject may have a copy of the pamphlet sent to him, together with a card with his name and address, together with 3 cents in postage stamps to cover cost of mailing. MEXICO CITY, May 19.—"We are lost. Good-by, gentlemen."

These were Carranza's final words before his flight from the besieged trains in the early afternoon of May 14, while pausing momentarily before a crowd of terrified civilians refugees a few miles east of San Marcos, accompanied by a few intimates and guarded by what special dispatches term "a very small cavalry force."

The fugitive President crossed the narrow valley through which the Mexican railway passes, stopped for a few moments to watch the Liberal revolutionary forces occupy the stalled trains, then disappeared in the mountains.

It is believed certain that Carranza is headed northeast toward the coast by way of Coahuila de Perote, with the intention of boarding a steamer at some small port and escaping from the country.

Judging from the list of captured officials and Generals received Sunday at the headquarters in Mexico City of the Liberal Revolutionary Government, few are accompanying Carranza. Among them are believed to be Luis Cabrera, Secretary of the Treasury; Gen. Juan Barragan, Chief of Staff; Gen. Francisco Murguia, commander of the train guards; Gen. Francisco Urigui, Sub-Secretary of War, and Ygnacio Bonillas, former Ambassador to the United States.

Little Coin Carried Away.

An inventory of the funds of the National Treasury aboard one of the trains shows a great quantity of gold and silver bars, but comparatively little money. Refugio Ruiz, Secretary of Agriculture, was in charge of this train. Manuel Aguirre Berelanda, Secretary of the Interior, and head of the Cabinet, is believed to be in hiding.

A motor truck loaded with gold coins which the Carranza party attempted to carry off, broke down, and the soldiers appropriated most of it.

With more than 2500 prisoners already counted, it is believed that the strong and heavily armed force, which Carranza took from the capital has been completely scattered, as hundreds of the soldiers fled into the mountains when the President abandoned the train. Refugees tell pitiful stories of hardships and terrors which began with the flight from Mexico City on May 7, and which ended in the afternoon of May 14.

Refugees Bitter Over Flight.

Their express bitterness at Carranza's failure to accept the safe conduct offered him by both Gen. Gonzalez and Gen. Obregon. It is believed, however, possible that Carranza did not know that Vera Cruz had been captured, nor that virtually the entire republic had turned against his administration, and persisted in the attempt to reach Vera Cruz, and there set up his administration in a temporary capital.

Cavalry columns under Gen. Carrillo, Guadalupe and Gonzalez are pursuing Carranza. The pursuit is difficult because of the nature of the terrain and his speedy cavalry is considered impracticable.

The manifesto of Pablo Gonzalez, published Sunday, announcing his definite retirement from the candidacy for the presidency in the July elections, was followed by the news that Gen. Obregon was leaving Mexico City Sunday night for a northern destination, probably Queretaro.

Gen. Obregon holds no office, and has not named any interim officials. It is believed that his move is intended to aid the purpose expressed by Gonzalez, retiring from his candidacy, which was to remove any possible chance of friction between the leaders of the liberal revolutionary party.

WOMEN SENSE PLOT IN CHICAGO CONVENTION RULE

Mrs. W. A. Swan Leads Indignation Conference on Probability of Not Being Seated as Delegate.

WILL REFUSE TO BE ELIMINATED

Several Candidates for Senate and State Offices Address League of Women Voters at Joplin.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JOPLIN, Mo., May 19.—Republican women attending the Congress of the League of Women Voters, led by Mrs. W. A. Swan of Joplin, one of eight delegates-at-large to the Republican National Convention, held conferences of indignation yesterday and last night upon the receipt of information that the two women delegates-at-large from Missouri might be refused seats in the national convention.

The women sensed in the situation which has developed a deep laid plot engineered by the men politicians of the Republican organization in Missouri to eliminate them, and they announced through the delegation to make a fight at Chicago for representation on the delegation.
The Republican State Convention
May 6 in Kansas City, as is generally known, elected eight delegates-at-large, two of whom were women and one a negro man, each to have half a vote. This action was taken in spite of the fact that the call of the Republican National Committee stipulated that only four delegates-at-large should be elected, and in spite of a letter from Chairman Hays of the National Committee to
W. L. Cole, chairman of the State Committee, telling him that it would be impossible to seat more delegations in the national convention and directing him to use his influence to prevent the election of a double delegation in Missouri. Cole opposed the election of the double delegation, but was overruled through the influence of National Committeeman Babler and others.

Conclusion as to Ruling.
Announcement came Saturday from the Arrangements Committee of the national committee that only seated delegates at large could be seated. A group of the more experienced women Republicans here have reached the conclusion that the party leaders had full knowledge that the complete delegation would not be seated and that they so framed the State convention rules that only men Republicans, connected with the organization, would be seated and that while the State organization would seemingly favor the women by giving them two places on the delegation, they knew that the two women would not be seated.

It is the expectation that the organization will attempt to have seated the four delegates first elected by the State convention. This would seat Senator Spencer, Cole, Walter S.
Dickey of Kansas City and Edward W. Forstet of St. Louis. It would eliminate Congressman Dyer. Mrs.
Swan, Mrs. Curtis, Mrs. Moberg,
Mrs. Greenwell and Dr. J. R. A.
Crossland of St. Joseph, a negro.
Those who would be seated under this plan would be the four that the organization really wants seated.
The four elected as delegates would be alternates.

It is probable that the Credentials Committee of the national convention will direct that the Missouri delegation shall decide the four to be seated. That was the system followed in 1912 when Missouri elected eight delegates at large and the convention refused to seat more than four.

Mrs. Swan last night told the Post-Dispatch correspondents that the women would not sit idly by and be eliminated.

"We are having a hard enough time as it is," she said. "The Republican party has not permitted the women the participation in its affairs that the Democratic party has. One thing is certain, if the men Republicans, the organization Republicans, attempt to prevent us from having representation on the delegation-at-large, the party will lose the women vote in Missouri."

Will Be on Hand.
"When the Missouri delegation meets, we women are going to be on hand and I am confident by the time we get through the men will have discovered that we were there."

"The women proposed in Kansas City that they should be given one-fourth the delegates-at-large. They did not care whether that was one in four or one in eight. The men decided on the latter. Now if they propose to cut us out, we simply are not going to stand for it."

"The method of selecting the delegates-at-large, as reported by the Rules Committee, was that first five men should be selected, then two women and then a negro. Now if it is proposed, as we have been informed it will be, that the first four elected will be seated, we will be eliminated and have seats only as alternates, without a voice in the convention proceedings."

"If the men want to drive the women out of the Republican party they can do it by following that system. It has been hard enough for loyal Republican women to hold in line the wavering ones in the face

The largest specimens of red fox

those of deepest color come from

The sale of 7800 Russian sable used for collars on men's coats, were sold. Two of these, sold together,

$1300 in the postoffice savings bank, $480 cash, Liberty Bonds valued at $200 and clothing and jewelry valued at $200 were stolen by burglars from the homes of Andrew Rontick, Joseph Lipnicki and Joseph Luba, 1710 and 1710A Austin street, by burglars yesterday.
None of the families was at home of the liberal representation given women by the Democrats. They certainly are not going to make it more difficult.

"I received the highest vote of the two women elected, and if it should be decided that one woman should be on the delegation I probably would be chosen, but this is a principle we are fighting for and we are not going to consent to be only alternates."

The Missouri delegation will meet in Chicago, June 7, the day before the convention convenes, and at that time the delegation will decide the four to be seated.

Candidates Are Heard.
Business sessions of the Congress of Women Voters were held yesterday, and last evening a dinner was given by Dwight Davis, candidate for United States Senator; Frank H.
Farris of Rolla, and Col. Ruby D.
Garrett of Kansas City, candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

The talks were in the main merely complimentary speeches such as the average politicians would deliver before an audience of women.
It had been the intention of the women to have addresses for each of the presidential candidates, but the disinterestedness of organization men politicians of Joplin in the meeting of the women discouraged them.
In fact, they did not get very far with their plan.

Former Senator Hugh McIndoe of Joplin had agreed to speak in behalf of Gov. Lowden. The women next approached Arthur Spencer of Joplin to speak for some other candidate, but he refused. Humphrey Sullivan of St. Louis came to Joplin to speak for Hoover, but was informed when he arrived that the speeches for presidential candidates had been called off.

None of the organization Republicans or Democrats of Southwest Missouri attended the meetings of the congress, though several were in attendance at the dinner.

All of the candidates for Governor and United States Senator had been invited to attend, but most of them sent regrets. The candidates for the most part are campaigning in other parts of the State.

BODY OF SLAYER OF WIFE TO BE BURIED APART FROM HERS

Relatives Refuse to Permit Remains of Beasley, Who Killed Himself on Grave, to Lie in Family Lot.

BROTHER TELLS OF WEEK IN WOODS

Says He Remained With Man Who Killed Wife and Their Children Because He Was in Trouble.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
VANDALIA, Ill., May 19.—The body of Harley O. Beasley, who shot and killed his common-law wife and their two children, near Webster City, Ia., on May 9, and who yesterday killed himself on the grave of the woman, near this city, will not be buried beside his victims, as he had requested.

Relatives of the woman, who own the lot in the little Bethlehem Cemetery, near here, refused to have the body laid in their tract, and it will be buried tomorrow in the graveyard of the Liberty Church, four miles north of the other cemetery, by Beasley's own relatives.

Coroner-Shutt held an inquest last night and a verdict of death by his own hand was returned in Beasley's case. The body was then turned over to Mrs. Jarrett Beasley, his mother.
The two here is one of sympathy for Delmar Beasley, the younger brother, who accompanied Harley into the woods. The youth was worn out by his stay of an entire week in the woods with his brother, during which time they were hunted by Sheriff's posses of the two counties.

tomobile accidents yesterday and early this morning.
Mrs. Edna Ramsdell, 37, of 3563 Delmar boulevard, was cut on the face and head at 6 p. m. when an automobile driven by her husband, William, was overturned at Tower Grove and Chouteau avenues when he attempted to avoid collision with an automobile of the United Railways Co. She was pinned beneath the car.

John Anscher, 20, and Oscar Brands, 20, of 1424 Amherst place, were cut and bruised when thrown from Anscher's automobile, over-

Plant Drops to Floor After Picking Up Vibrator.

Albert Apenbrink, 48 years old, a machinist, died this morning from a cause not fully explained, at the plant of the St. Louis Ice Cream and Soda Co., 517 South Jefferson avenue, where he had gone to make repairs. In order to tighten a fly wheel he picked up a vibrator, which was electrically attached, but which,
according to workers at the plant, carried only 110 volts, ordinarily not enough to occasion a fatal shock.

He was taken to the city hospital was found to be dead, a pulmonary failing to resuscitate him. No mark indicating the cause of his death appeared on his body. Apenbrink resided at the Princes Hotel, Eighteenth and Chestnut streets.

20 ST. LOUISANS NET $45,000 EACH IN NEW YORK DEAL

Syndicate Headed by Festus
J. Wade Sells Famous
No. 1 Wall Street Property for $1,200,000.

SITE AND BUILDING COST MILLION IN 1906

Net Rentals of $700,000 Collected Meantime Brought Clear Profit in 14 Years to $900,000.

A syndicate of 20 St. Louis business men, headed by Festus J. Wade,
president of the Mercantile Trust
Co., yesterday sold No. 1 Wall street,
New York, at a price which Wade today said he believed to be the highest figure ever paid for real estate anywhere in the world.

The site, fronting 30 feet on Broadway and 40 feet on Wall street, was sold by the syndicate for $1,200,000.
The transfer included an 18-story building which was erected for $300,000 by the syndicate after it purchased the site for $700,000 in 1906. Wade said that as the purchasers will tear down this building and erect a larger one in its place the sale price may be considered as having been paid for the ground alone. On this basis the ground brought a price of $1000 a square foot or $40,000 a linear foot based on the Broadway frontage.

Profit of Each $45,000.
The sale of the site and the net rental profit on the building for the 14 years of its ownership nets each member of the St. Louis syndicate a clear profit of $45,000, according to a computation made by Wade, who said the building had yielded an annual rental of $110,000 a year and that the annual net profit on this rental was $50,000, or 5 per cent of the total initial cost of the ground and building.

The members of the syndicate, according to Wade's estimate of the profits, almost doubled their money in the 14 years of their ownership of
No. 1 Wall street. The investment of each was $50,000, or only $5000 more than the net profit taken out by each member.

The syndicate receives for the property $200,000 more than it paid for the ground and building. In addition it has collected $700,000 in net rental profits. This makes the total net profit on the transaction $900,000, in which each of the 20 syndicate members has an equal interest. The rental profits have been divided annually and equally among the syndicate members, all of whom were stockholders in a company incorporated in New York in 1906 as The No. 1 Wall Street Corporation.

The only names appearing on the record as members of the syndicate at the time of the incorporation were those of Festus J. Wade, Martin Shaugnessy, Frank Ruf, John Sullivan, Daniel C. Nugent, Paul Brown, James Campbell, James G.
Butler and Lorenzo E. Anderson.

All Names Not Made Public.
Wade today said the names of all the members of the syndicate were never made public and would not be given out, as the corporation was a private one and some of its stockholders might object to the publication of their names. Several of the original stockholders have died, but their shares are held by their estates.

The St. Louis syndicate purchased the property from the estate of J.
B. Silliman, who for years before his death had refused to sell the property, whose only improvement was a small drug store.

'Innocent Cheating' at Cards No Crime, Priest Holds

Pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church Justifies Statement by "Handbook's" Permission of "Usual Ruses."

The Rev. Anthony Hartmann, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Eleventh and Biddle streets, in his sermon last Sunday morning, declared that cheating while playing cards is all right if the other fellow is not smart enough at the game to detect the cheat; that playing with dice for a small amount is no crime unless one is playing for hundreds of dollars, which would be morally wrong.

The Rev. Father Hartmann used for his text "Recreation," giving a simplified version of the chapter on that subject in the Catholic "Handbook of Moral Theology."

In explaining his statement to a Post-Dispatch reporter today Father Hartmann said it may be legally wrong to play with dice for cards for money, no matter how small an amount, but that he was referring solely to the moral side as explained in the "Handbook." As to cheating in these games, he said he was of the opinion that the "Handbook" statement that "there must be no fraud in the transaction, although the usual ruses may be allowed," referred to innocent cheating as "the usual ruses."

Asked as to what he considered "innocent cheating," Father Hartmann said he meant in a game where there was no professional gambling, but merely playing for amusement, with small stakes involved to add interest, where one player introduces a "usual ruse" or "cheats a little" and is smart enough to escape detection. He also said he modified his statement as to the moral position of amateur gambling with the proviso that players must not gamble with stolen money. When the syndicate, who recently visited New York to negotiate the sale of the property, said that while there he was told a story that has long been current in connection with Sil-liman's unwillingness to sell. According to this story, Anderson said, a man went to Silliman and asked how much he wanted for the ground.

Silliman handed him a plat and said:
"Take this plat and figure how many gold dollars it would take to cover the 1300 square feet of ground." The prospective purchaser figured it out and went back, ready to conclude the deal.

"How did you put the dollars
"I laid them flat," replied the other.

"Oh, that won't do," said Silliman.
"I meant you must cover the ground with gold dollars stood on edge."

BROKER WHO KEEPS CHICKENS DISCHARGED

Judge Miller Rules Out Objections to Fowls Next to Buckingham Annex.

Thomas E. Price, of 26 North King's highway, wealthy grain broker, was discharged today by Judge Miller, in the Court of Criminal Correction, before whom he was arraigned on the charge of maintaining a nuisance, by keeping chickens, pigeons, ducks and five dogs on his premises. The complaints were women living at the Buckingham Annex Hotel, whose windows overlook Price's back yard, and who complained that noises and odors from the Price premises disturbed them.

Price's case was heard May 7 by Police Judge Mix, who fined him $100. It came before Judge Miller on appeal. Judge Miller, in rendering his decision, said: "I am sorry I cannot please all concerned, as they are all such nice people."
Wade recently visited New York to arrange the preliminaries for the sale of the property. The actual transfer was made under the direction of R. King Kaufman, a vice president of the Mercantile Trust Co., which acted as agent for the syndicate.

WASHINGTON TO COPY ST. LOUIS ZONE LAW

Harland Bartholomew Engaged to Draft Ordinance for National Capital.

Harland Bartholomew, engineer of the City Plan Commission, has been commissioned consulting engineer for the drafting of a zoning ordinance for Washington, D. C.

His selection was at a conference of Col. C. W. Kutz and Louis Brownlow, engineering commissioners of that city, who are appointed by the President. Col. C. S. Reddy, superintendent of public buildings and grounds, and Elliot Woods, superintendent of capital buildings and grounds. He was informed that the conference viewed the St. Louis zoning ordinance as the best and most practical among American cities.

Bartholomew said that he had volunteered his services without charge, but was informed that his expenses would be paid and that some ren-eration would be fixed later by act of Congress. His duties will require a two-month trip to Washington.
The work is to be completed by Sept. 1.

Bartholomew receives $4000 a year as engineer of the City Plan Commission. His agreement is that part of his time may be spent in out-of-work. He has been acting as consulting engineer in the preparation of a zoning ordinance for Detroit.
Mich. Bartholomew came to St.
Louis from the East four years ago.
He resides at 5408 Maple avenue.

"NICKY" ARNSTEIN PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO THEFT CHARGES

Another Indictment Produced Accusing Him of Receiving $42,000 Stolen Stock Certificates.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 19.—Julius W.
"Nicky" Arnstein, sometimes referred to as the "Master Mind" of New York's $5,000,000 bond theft plot, appeared today in the Court of General Sessions and pleaded not guilty to the indictments charging him with various thefts. His counsel reserved the right to make any necessary motions within a week.

After Arnstein had pleaded not guilty to the indictments charging him with grand larceny and receiving stolen property, as a second offense, Assistant District Attorney Dooley called the Court's attention to a third indictment against "Nicky" under the name of George W. Arnold. This indictment, overlooked at the time bail was fixed for Ar-nstein, charged him with criminally receiving $42,000 worth of stolen
Crucible steel stock certificates.

While admitting he had not known of the third indictment, Judge Crain, did not increase Arnstein's bail.

BULK OF $1,500,000 LEFT TO AID SUFFRAGE HAS BEEN SPENT

Distribution in Last Year Disclosed at Hearing in New York on Contest of Will.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 19.—Howard B.
Parker, counsel for Miss Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, yesterday vigorously contested a motion to set aside the will of Mrs. Frank Leslie, who left an estate of about $1,750,000 to Mrs. Catt for the cause of woman suffrage. Then he announced that the bulk of the estate already had been distributed.

"What," shouted counsel for the petitioner, "according to the accounting I looked up last year there was $1,000,000 of this estate left." Parker commented that "a long time has elapsed since then" and "there were no legal obstacles to its distribution."

COMMISSION REDUCES ST. LOUIS VALUATIONS

Appraisal of Bank Stock, Cattle and Sheep Cut Down by State Body.

Four items, three of them minor ones, in the St. Louis City Assessor's figures, as submitted to the State Tax Commission, were changed by the commission, according to a dispatch from Jefferson City. The Tax Commission's work is subject to review by the State Board of Equalization, which will make its report probably in July or August, and which will fix the franchise assessments of public service corporations.

The items changed are: Bank stock, reduced from $2,391,010 to $42,348,674; cattle, reduced from $97,230 to $77,784; hogs, increased from $260 to $450; sheep, reduced from $110 to $99.

The City Assessor's valuations which are not changed by the commission are: Real estate, $634,689,260; money on hand and in bank, $7,072,340; bonds, notes and deeds of trust, $13,525,610; horses, $560,000; mules, $125,380; miscellaneous stocks, $15,345,240; other personal property, $38,040,890.

Cuts Total Valuation.

By the changes made by the commission, the City Assessor's total of real and personal property, not including the franchise valuations to be added later by the State Board of Equalization, is reduced from $771,847,680 to $762,786,177.

Taken for the state as a whole, the Tax Commission's report tends to place a greater burden of taxation on city property, and to lessen the taxation on rural property.

The valuation of land, as returned by the assessors to the tax commission, is reduced $349,469,177 by the commission, while the item of town lots, which constitute more than 35 per cent of land in the cities, was increased from $1,040,754,425, as returned by the assessors, to $1,140,581,717.

Advance in Kansas City.

The Assessor's return on town lots in Kansas City was advanced $38,426,210.

Classes of personal property, the large bulk of which is owned in rural sections, were reduced from the valuations returned by assessors, as follows: Cattle, $10,500,000; hogs, $2,500,000; mules, $3,500,000; horses, $2,500,000; sheep, $1,500,000.

The total valuation of the state on all real and personal property, as recommended by the Commission is $2,483,273,472. This figure is $425,270,960 less than the aggregate values returned by assessors, but is $212,067,478 more than the total fixed by the State Board of Equalization last year.

WOOD LEADER IN VERMONT IN EXTREMELY LIGHT VOTE

Only One-Twentieth of Normal Republican Poll Turns Out in Primary Not Binding on Delegates.

By the Associated Press.
MONTPELIER, Vt., May 19.—Incomplete returns early today from Vermont's presidential preference primary yesterday gave Major-General Leonard Wood, approximately 70 per cent of the Republican vote, the total of which was about one-twentieth of normal. The Democratic vote was negligible. Senator Hiram W. Johnson, California, and Herbert C. Hoover were in a close race for second place on the Republican ballot. Gov. Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts and William Grant Webster, an attorney of New York, were contesting the next position.

Gen. Wood ran better in the country towns than in the cities. His name and Webster's were the only ones printed on the Republican ballot, and there were none printed on the Democratic ticket. The light vote cast in the primary is attributed to the fact that the result of the balloting is not binding on the delegates to the party national conventions, who will be elected at State conventions to be held soon.

TWO ACQUITTED OF ROBBERY

Morris Moll and William Burke Freed in Kinloch Case.

Morris Moll of the LaSalle Hotel and William Burke of 1413 North Twelfth street, indicted for robbery in the first degree, were acquitted by a jury in Judge Kline's court yesterday. Harry Moll, Morris' brother, took a severance and will be tried later.

Moll and Burke were charged with robbing Joe Levy, paymaster for the Kinloch Telephone Co., at the company's warehouse at Ninth street and Park avenue Jan. 5. Levy had pay envelopes for employees in a pasteboard box, which the robbers knocked from his hands, escaping in a taxicab. The witnesses for the prosecution were at variance in their description of the robbers, some saying they had caps and some that they wore hats.

CHICAGO MOVES TO END STRIKE

Offers City Employees Full Hearing on Wage Demands.

CHICAGO, May 19.—City officials attempted to obtain a truce today with 3346 striking employees of the city garbage, street cleaning and repair departments, who walked out yesterday. Heads of five unions met with William Burkhardt, Deputy Commissioner of Finance, and other city officials, who offered a full hearing before heads of the city departments affected, with promise of settlement of the wage demands within 15 days.

Unless the strike is called off soon, city officials said, various enterprises in the city engineering department will have to be suspended and about 5000 more employees will be thrown out of work.

JEWISH HOSPITAL IN HILLCREST OPPOSED

City Plan Commission Against Amending Zone Law to Permit Erection There.

The plan of the Jewish Hospital Association to erect its new hospital, for which it recently raised in excess of $1,000,000, on Skinker road near Hillcrest, was rendered virtually impossible last night when the City Plan Commission voted not to recommend an amendment to the zoning ordinance forbidding such a structure until a majority of the citizens in Hillcrest requested such an amendment.

It was stated at a public hearing on the matter yesterday that none of the residents of Hillcrest now is willing that the hospital should be erected near their residences and the statement was uncontradicted. Five Jews, residents of Hillcrest and contributors to the hospital fund, stated their opposition to the site.

Carter for Amendment.
W. Frank Carter, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who, however, stated that he was appearing as an attorney, not as the civic body's head, led the advocacy for an amendment permitting the hospital on a site now owned by Thomas K. Skinner. He declared that the residence district on Delmar boulevard had not been impaired in desirability by the presence of St. Luke's and the present Jewish hospitals. He cited the recent erection of five homes costing in excess of $15,000 in that district. He also called attention to the fear expressed by Aaron Waldheim, president of the hospital board, that some of the contributors would withdraw their donations when it was seen that the site desired could not be obtained.

William H. Corcoran, a resident of Hillcrest, stated that his understanding was that 90 per cent of the Jewish people going to and from the hospital were of the poorer class. He said that while the proposed site was accessible to automobiles, it would be accessible with difficulty to the great majority desiring to go to it.

Other Desirable Sites.
George K. Hohenzelle, another resident of Hillcrest, named seven sites other than the one near Hillcrest which, in his opinion, were more desirable. John H. Farish, a former president of the Real Estate Exchange, said that as a general proposition the presence of a hospital hurt realty values. Dr. M. A. Bliss, a neurologist, stated that the psychological effect of the presence of a hospital on nearby residents commonly is bad.

One of the Jews at the hearing to rise when Luther Ely Smith called for expression of their opposition to the Hillcrest site was David B. Eisenman. He said that he felt sure that the hospital would be erected even if the Hillcrest site was denied. He previously has stated his willingness to increase his subscription to the hospital fund $5000 if more money is needed to get another site.

U. S. CONSIDERING REPRESENTATION IN SPA CONFERENCE

Has No Member on Reparations Commission, but Has Serious Interest in Fixing of War Indemnity.

DELAY ON TREATY
LEAVES US OUT

Plans Made Abroad Involving Payment of Foreign Debt to U. S. While Issue Remains Unsettled.

By DAVID LAWRENCE,
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The United States Government may be officially represented at the meeting between the allies and Germany at Spa, where it is expected that a definite sum will be fixed which the Germans will be obligated to pay as war indemnity.

Although America has not ratified the peace treaty, under which the Reparations Commission was to determine the amount of German indemnity, America was specifically designated for membership in that commission and a question has been raised here whether it would not be within the jurisdiction and power of President Wilson to appoint a plenipotentiary to sit in at these most important meetings.

If, it is contended, the President could appoint a committee to negotiate peace, he can appoint a commission or an envoy to discuss further with the enemy the working out of the terms of the armistice. All the meetings thus far in Europe have been between the associated Powers and American diplomats have been unofficially "observers," without any opportunity to participate in the discussion.

Tired of Using Keyhole.
Officials here are getting tired of the humiliation of having European Government discuss affairs vital to America's economic welfare with American representatives "looking in through the keyhole," as one of the Treasury officials phrased it.

Strictly speaking, the President has an important decision to make in connection with the Spa conference, for Germany really signed the peace treaty and consented to the vesting of big powers in the Reparations Commission on the expectation that America would be a member of that body.

The President asked Senator Lodge to co-operate in approving the appointment of an American representative to the Reparations Commission, but the Republican leader published the President's letter and took no further action.

It would not be surprising to find the President advertising to this incident when he again returns the treaty of Versailles to the Senate for action. Cablegrams from abroad within the last week have told of the various plans and schemes which are being concocted abroad to cancel or postpone the payment of the allied debt to the United States.

None of these plans has the slightest chance of being accepted either by the executive branch of the Government or Congress, which body must approve any change in the existing status of our foreign debt. But, it is pointed out, the United States could save the allies considerable time and trouble, and many misunderstandings would be avoided, if the United States could sit down at a table with the allies and the Germans and assist in the economic reconstruction of the world. Delay on the treaty has prevented this thus far.

"Must Come to Our View."
"The allies are all around to the American point of view expressed at the peace conference," said Bernard Baruch, head of the American financial mission, today. "They must fix a definite and reasonable sum for Germany to pay. And when that is fixed you will see a revival of exchanges and revival of production throughout the world."

Practically the same view was given the writer by Norman Davis, another financial expert, who went to Paris for the United States Government, and who is Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of foreign loans.

"The only way any appreciable amount can be collected from Germany," said Davis, "is to fix a definite and reasonable sum and capitalize it by issuing obligations."

Of course, Europe need not expect America to accept these obligations, however useful they may be in the refinancing of their own debts. For, as far as the United States is concerned, she looks to France and England alone to pay the money owed us, and is not at all disturbed by the absurd suggestions that the United States should accept German reparations bonds in exchange for the signatures and guarantees of the British Empire and France.

Treasury Viewpoint.

Another thing, the viewpoint expressed in treasury quarters here is that the allies had better fix a reasonable sum for Germany to pay and do it quickly lest the amount the Germans finally are able to pay dwindles by reason of the very vagueness and uncertainty of allied policy. Reports to our Government from Germany show a striking apathy. The Germans say, "What's the use? We must keep on paying the rest of our lives." And, "We can't pay."

In other words, a reasonable indemnity must be fixed that will give the Germans incentive to produce and sell. Otherwise, the allies will not collect the money they expect. But the British and French are being converted to that viewpoint, and the purpose of the preliminary conference has been to arrange a program to put before the Germans at Spa.

Shall the United States stay out?

PRESIDING ELDER Feels Ten Years Younger

Rev. W. H. J. Powell, presiding elder of the Fordyce District West Arkansas Conference, Camden, Arkansas, says, "One of my parishioners recommended Dr. Chase's Blood and Nerve Tablets to me, and I thank God I found this remedy, for I really believe I should have died had I not found it. My strength has been restored and I feel ten years younger. Before I used Dr. Chase's Blood and Nerve Tablets I used to be so weak at times I had to hold onto the pulpit while delivering my sermons. There were nights when the slightest noise would awaken me, as the closing of a door or the flapping of a window shade. I was nervous, had lost control of my bowels, and sometimes it seemed as though there was no feeling in my lower limbs." Sold by Druggists at 60 cents. Special (Stronger, more Active, 90 cents.)

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place. Because of its germ-destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness. You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.

President Wilson was snubbed by the Senate once before when he suggested American representation on the Reparations Commission but that commission was created by the treaty.

Under international law and constitutional law, the President can appoint an envoy to discuss anything with Germany or any other country. He has the power to do so but it is a question whether, in view of the treaty fight in the Senate, he will consider it advisable to do so. His decision involves a point more delicate than anything that has arisen in our foreign relations since the peace treaty failed to pass the Senate.

Memphis Man Tells of Having Drink in House With Two Men.

Jacob Brown of Memphis, while waiting for a train at Union Station last night, accepted an invitation of two men to see the sights and have a drink. He accompanied them in an automobile, was taken to a social gathering and had his drink, then noted the loss of his purse, containing $169. He pursued a man out of the house, and on Leonard avenue, near Franklin avenue, policemen halted and arrested a man who said he was Frank Cento of 2215 Mullany street. Brown said the man was one of his hosts. The man denied this, saying he had never seen Brown before.

COCOANUT OIL FINE FOR WASHING HAIR

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multisified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multisified coconut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

Zemo is a wonderful, penetrating, disappearing liquid and is soothing to the most delicate skin. It is not greasy, is easily applied and costs little. Get it today and save all further distress.

ENTHUSIASM GREETST TRUCKS IN 3 TOWNS

Perryville, Ste. Genevieve and St. Mary's Give Reception to Caravan.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PERRYVILLE, Mo., May 19.—The enthusiasm which greeted the "Ship by Truck" tour today showed the growing interest in good roads throughout Southeast Missouri.

Except for the first seven miles and two bad holes, the roads were in fair shape, mostly surfaced with gravel. It took four hours to negotiate the first seven miles. The tour was delayed by the Class B army truck. It was heavily loaded, carrying a house for recruiting, and, despite the game efforts of the soldiers in charge, it was forced to give up trying to keep pace with the other trucks.

Some of the roads were in excellent shape for this section of Missouri and at one time the new three-ton Packard on pneumatic tires, leading the tour, covered 20 miles in 48 minutes, averaging 25 miles an hour, and at times making 40 miles an hour.

Only two bad places were encountered yesterday afternoon. Here again the Nash Quad truck did wonderful work towing the other trucks. By virtue of its traction on all four wheels, it succeeded in going through on its own power, but was held to help the others, and it was midnight when it pulled into Perryville, followed by the last truck of the line.

Reception at Ste. Genevieve. The caravan was due at Ste. Genevieve at 11 a. m. yesterday, but did not arrive until after 2 p. m. The reception accorded the trucks amounted to an ovation. As they entered the business section of the city they were cheered by many hundreds of men, women and children who were lined up along the sidewalks.

The reason for their arrival here behind the proposed schedule was that the train was compelled several times to stop along the route between Farmington and Ste. Genevieve to dig the large United States army trucks out of the mud, hub deep in places. All of the 35 trucks and four automobiles arrived here in good condition and are standing the test satisfactorily. The personnel of the caravan was in high spirits, notwithstanding the trying ordeal they had already experienced, with only one-third of the tour completed. The enthusiastic and wholehearted reception at Ste. Genevieve was the biggest thing they had so far encountered.

Father Van Tournant of the historic Ste. Genevieve Church (the only one in the town), will preach next Sunday on "Good Roads."

The trucks were parked around the public square and from the platform of one of them Dr. G. M. Rutledge, president of the local Board, introduced Robert E. Lee, commander of the train, who in turn introduced City Counselor Charles Daus and Roy S. Raushkolb, who made brief addresses emphasizing the need of good roads in Missouri, the significance of the ship-by-truck movement, and concluded with special appeals for the passage of the $60,000,000 bond issue which is to be submitted to the people next November.

This caravan is one of many that are covering the United States this week on the mission of arousing the people to a realization of the fact that the time is here when they must co-operate in the building of substantial highways in order that the ship-by-truck movement will help them to come into closer touch with markets of the big cities.

Many of the trucks brought merchandise to business houses in this city free of charge.

Already behind time on the trip, the caravan moved out of Ste. Genevieve about 3:45 o'clock for St. Mary's, 10 miles south.

NEW YORK MILK DELIVERIES CURTAILED BY DRIVERS' STRIKE

2000 Drivers Walk Out Over Discharge of Nine Union Men—40 Per cent of Force Idle.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Milk deliveries in Manhattan and Long Island City were greatly curtailed today by a strike of approximately 2000 drivers employed by milk distributing companies. The men left their work to protest against the discharge of nine union members by two distributing companies, who, it is alleged were dismissed at the request of walking delegates of the union.

All of the leading distributing companies were affected by the walkout, which union men declare will spread to include Brooklyn, and the Bronx. The drivers now on strike represent about 40 per cent of the total number employed by the distributors.

Officials of the milk companies declared they had not been given advance notice of the strike, but the drivers merely failed to report for duty today.

While unable to make deliveries to hundreds of customers in Manhattan and Long Island City, the companies announced that they were able to deliver an adequate supply to all of their hospital and nursery trade.

LOUISIANA GOVERNOR REFUSES TO AID WOMEN

Declines President's Request That He Urge Legislature to Ratify Suffrage.

By the Associated Press
BATON ROUGE, La., May 19.—Gov. Parker has declined to accede to the request of President Wilson that he ask the Louisiana Legislature to ratify the Federal suffrage amendment.

President Wilson yesterday wired the Governor urging him to use his influence to bring about the adoption of the Federal amendment. The Governor's reply to the President was as follows:

"Thanks for your courteous telegram. Have just been inaugurated. Find General Assembly differs on question of suffrage. Large number opposed to any form. Some advocate State measure, others Federal amendment. All being Democrats, any dictation on my part would be unwise and I regret my inability to comply with your request, believing action of my people should be paramount to be personal views."

The President's message urging his interest and influence in support of Federal suffrage said:

"May I not respectfully urge your favorable interest and influence in the matter of the suffrage amendment? It seems to be of the deepest national significance and importance."

A resolution calling for rejection of the Federal amendment was introduced in the Senate and opponents of the amendment announced they would call it up tomorrow. While the House is expected to vote for ratification, opponents of suffrage expressed belief that the rejection resolution would be adopted by the Senate.

SUFFRAGISTS HECKLE HAYS THROUGH SPEECH TO WOMEN

Questioners Demand to Know Why Suffrage Amendment Was Defeated by Delaware Legislature.

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 19.—A bevy of women suffrage workers fresh from their unavailing labors to obtain ratification of the suffrage amendment by the Delaware Legislature, persistently heckled Will H. Hays, Republican national chairman, when he made a speech yesterday at a meeting of Republican women of the District of Columbia.

The interruptions, designed to make the chairman explain why the Republican majority at the Delaware capital could not force adoption of the amendment, began as soon as he rose to speak and kept the assemblage of several hundred women in an intermittent uproar, until he had concluded.

"As soon as you have had more experience in practical politics," Mr. Hays told the first questioner, "you will understand that party officials do not carry legislatures around in their pockets."

"The Republican organization has done everything it honorably could do to induce the Delaware Legislature to act. The only thing left would be for us to go down and try to buy some votes, and that isn't done any more in the Republican party."

STOCK SALES TAX OPPOSED

Brokers Here Say It Would Put Many Out of Business.

Bankers, brokers and members of the St. Louis Stock Exchange are sending telegrams to Missouri representatives in Congress asking that they oppose the proposal of the Ways and Means Committee of the House to tax all stock sales $15 for each 11 shares as one of the means of producing a bonus for soldiers.

It is declared that the tax will make it impossible for many brokers to exist, and will have the ultimate effect of making London the primary market for American securities instead of New York. Sales are tax free in London. The present tax upon sales is a $2 New York State tax and a $2 Federal tax, or a total of $4. The total tax under the new proposal would be $19.

The Brunswick

When you realize this charming bit of interior conceals the world's most glorious music, you must yield the crown of final achievement to the makers of the Brunswick.

We, as dealers in fine furniture and designers of correctly beautiful interiors, could sell no phonograph but the Brunswick—the Models de Luxe being exquisite adaptations of furniture of the Louis Seize, Renaissance Italian, Eighteenth Century English and America Colonial Periods.

More important, however, than the perfection of the interior, is the instrument itself. IT HAS NO EQUAL. We will prove this any time you will come in and let us play the Brunswick for you.

We have all the styles of Brunswick Phonographs (can even make special cases to your order) and of course we sell Brunswick records, too.

Il Lombardi is the name of the pictured Brunswick. When the Italian note is so frequently dominant in fine interiors and when so many of the great singers are themselves Italian, this particular model is most happily designed and named.

DISTRIBUTORS OF CLOTHING "PASS BUCK" ON PRICES

Shifting of Blames Extends From Retailer to Wholesaler to Manufacturer to Mill Agent.

CLOTH MANUFACTURER LAST FACTOR IN LINE

Expensive Government, in That It Levies Tax on Profits, Assailed by Head of Textile Plant.

A Post-Dispatch reporter, seeking information on how the various agencies of ready-to-wear clothing distribution divide responsibility for high prices, talked yesterday with retailers, wholesalers, manufacturers, mill agents and textile. Representatives of the latter three branches of the trade are in attendance at the twenty-third annual convention of the International Association of Garment Manufacturers at Hotel Statler.

The reporter found that the retailers blame the wholesalers, the wholesalers blame the manufacturers, the manufacturers blame the mill agents, the mill agents blame the textile and the textile blame the government. Each claimed to be making a correspondingly small margin of actual profit.

The situation in the ready-to-wear trade, with regard to responsibility for high prices, was found to be similar to that in the channels of food distribution, representatives of which were interviewed by the Post-Dispatch last week at the convention of the Southern Wholesale Grocers' Association. It will be recalled that in that instance the retailer blamed the wholesaler, the wholesaler blamed the canners and the canners blamed the food speculators.

Retailer First Consulted. Beginning at the top of the ladder of clothing distribution, the reporter sought the views of the retailer. He asked Aaron Fuller, president of the Strix, Baer & Fuller Co., what had become of the $1.50 shirt, the 50-cent necktie and the fifty suit that could be had a few years ago for $29 and what was the cause of the present day high prices. Fuller said:

"The retailer has nothing to do with the price. That is controlled by the wholesaler and manufacturer and, to some extent, by the demands of the public. The retailer operates on a cost-plus-reasonable-profit basis, and our profits are no more today than they were before the prices began to go up. Abnormal demand for certain fabrics and colors causes the manufacturer and wholesaler to boost prices and, naturally, the retailer has to do likewise. Help, light, heat and all other overhead expenses are higher and that fact contributes to the cause of high prices. St. Louis retailers, at that, are selling their goods at from 10 per cent to 25 per cent lower than Chicago and New York stores."

Supply Short, Wholesalers Say. With the question thus put up to the wholesaler, the reporter called on Aaron Rauh, vice president of the Rice-Stix Dry Goods Co., and asked him for the wholesaler's viewpoint. Rauh said:

"The principal reason for the high cost of wearing apparel is lack of production by the manufacturer. Increased cost of labor and reduced hours of work also have a great deal to do with it. The generally improved condition of the people has created a big demand for higher grade goods and the demand exceeds the supply. Until we return to a period of greater production we will continue to have a supply unequal to the demand."

Thus did the wholesaler pass the question to the manufacturer, and, to get the latter's viewpoint, the reporter called on Max Berlowitz, vice president of Cohen Brothers, Milwaukee, manufacturers of medium grade shirts and clothing. He said:

"Increased cost of raw materials which we purchase, through the mill agents, from the textile is the chief cause. The high cost of labor comes next. There might be profiteering in silk garments, but not in the manufacture of wearing apparel for the working classes. We pay $1.16 a yard for cloth which cost us 37 cents a yard before the war, and 45 cents a yard for goods that used to cost but 12 cents a yard. Thread and buttons have gone up, too, as well as every other accessory of the garment-making trade. Labor costs us 100 per cent more than it did in 1915. Garment workers who used to get $12 and $14 a week now receive $27.50 to $42 a week, and work shorter hours."

Manufacturer's Statement. The "buck" having been passed to the mill agent, the reporter then saw Sol F. Dribben, vice president of the Cone Exporting and Commission Co., of Greensboro, N. C. Dribben said:

"The question of cost is not to be glossed at. It must be considered with the same degree of care by the business man as it is by the housewife in arranging her family budget. Increased cost of everything confronts the business man at every turnover in the channel of distribution from the textile to the retailer. Raw materials are scarcer and higher than they ever were before."

A Letter to the Public

Dear Sir:
I wish to let you know what AR-LON done for me. I was suffering with my stomach for several years. I used medicine from our family doctor. He said I had to be operated on, for I had gall stones, but I did not want to be operated on, so a friend of my husband brought me some AR-LON for the gall stones, and I used one large jar of it, and in three weeks I was feeling fine—all my pains gone. I thank you for the wonderful medicine. I will highly recommend it to everyone for stomach trouble or gall stones.

With many thanks for AR-LON, I remain,

Yours truly,
MRS. ROSE ALBING,

OIL DEVELOPMENT CO.'S SALESMEN ARRESTED

Prosecutor Charges They Are Not Registered With Bank Examiner.

Abie Goodman, sales manager of the Booker Tee Wash Oil Development Co., and three solicitors were arrested yesterday afternoon at the request of Prosecuting Attorney Sidener who today issued warrants charging them with operating an investment company without having registered with the State Bank Examiner, as is required by the "blue sky" law.

Goodman gave his address as the St. Francis Hotel, Sixth and Chestnut street. The others arrested were Morris Wyman, 1222 Wash street; William Karney, 2630 St. Louis avenue; and Joseph A. Thrapp, 4013 North Ninth street.

Two detectives who went to the office were told the company was selling leaseholds on units of 500 square feet of a 40-acre tract of land in Cherokee County, Ok. The price of each unit was $40, payable $1 down and $1 a week. Those who agree to purchase a unit receive a bond which, it is promised, will be replaced with a leasehold deed when the installment payments are completed. The detectives agreed to buy one of the units. They reported they were told that the money paid in would be used to prospect for oil. After signing up for one of the bonds the detectives made the arrests.

Goodman and the solicitors were taken to police headquarters and released on common law bonds.

By the Associated Press
CLEVELAND, O., May 19.—Dr. John Nelson Stockwell, one of America's foremost astronomers, died here yesterday as the result of a recent stroke of apoplexy. He was 88 years old.

Dr. Stockwell was one of the first scientists of the country to discredit the claims of Dr. Frederick A. Cook that he discovered the North Pole.

CUPPLES OUSTER IS DENIED

Supreme Court Holds Company Can Operate Under Old Ordinance.

The Cupples Station Light, Heat & Power Co. can continue to use the streets for the distribution of current through conduits, under a decision rendered yesterday by the State Supreme Court. The court denied an application filed by the Attorney General, at the instance of the Union Electric Light & Power Co., for the ouster of the Cupples Station company from the streets.

The Court held that the Cupples Station plant was entitled to operate under the terms of an old city ordinance through which it had obtained a permit to use the streets. The Union company had contended that a later measure, providing that no concern could use the public streets except by specific ordinance, applied to the Cupples company.

fore, but I prefer that you ask the textiler about that."

What the Textiler Says
So the reporter had a talk with C. C. Overton, president of the Columbia Textile Co., of Lowell, Mass. Overton said:

"The Government is to blame. The fundamental cause of the high cost of clothing is the excess profit tax. We are supporting a very expensive Government. Instead of the Government being the least of our worries and at the bottom of the list of our expenses, it is at the top. We cannot afford to sell goods at a normal profit when the Government takes most of the profit. There should be less Government and more business. Another cause is the scarcity of raw material. People will not work in the country and help produce the materials we need. The high price of labor also is a contributing factor. But the Government should be helping business along instead of being a burden on its shoulders."

Textile men at the convention when asked how they reconciled their statement that the excess profit tax is eating up most of their profit with the fact that recently a number of mills had declared 100 per cent dividends on stock, said that they did not belong to the "100-per-cent crowd."

Say Profits Are Small.

"The textilers represented here have been making 8 and 10 per cent profit on capital invested and the Government has been getting 50 per cent of that profit," said Overton. "The mills which have been declaring big dividends are the ones which furnish unfinished products to converters. They do not deal through the regular channels of the trade."

"The woolen mills earned large profits because they took advantage of a favorable market two years ago and cornered the supply of raw materials, but the wool industry has become demoralized and its profit-making days are over."

Galbraith Miller, of Milwaukee, chairman of the Resolutions Committee, expressed the opinion that prices might go down if some readjustment of distribution could be made whereby the excessive cost of interchanging between textiler and retailer could be reduced.

BRITISH DEBT TO U. S.
HANDLED SEPARATELY

Commons Told Question Is Being Dealt With Independently of Share in Indemnity.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 19.—Austin

Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, stated in the House of Commons today that the question of Great Britain's indebtedness to the United States was being dealt with independently of Great Britain's share in the indemnity from Germany.

The Chancellor's statement was called out by a question as to whether an arrangement had been made with France that she repay her indebtedness to Great Britain when France receives her share of the German indemnity, and, if so, whether it would be possible for Great Britain to repay her borrowings from the United States when Great Britain receives her share of the indemnity.

Chamberlain said that France's net debt to Great Britain, after considerable adjustments, had been made, probably would total under £200,000,000 ($2,500,000,000).

"No definite arrangement of any kind has been reached regarding the repayment of this debt," the Chancellor said.

Chamberlain was asked whether,
when Germany paid indemnity to France, she would also be forced to make payments to Great Britain, even if Great Britain allowed France to defer payment of the loan. The Chancellor replied: "It was agreed between the two Governments that payments should be made in the terms of the treaty, the cost of the army occupation coming first and any sums allowed Germany for food, maintenance and raw materials coming next, but there will be no question of priority among the allies regarding the distribution of sums available in payment of reparation."

The nominal value of French Government treasury bills held by Great Britain in respect to advances since 1914 was £18,440,000, Chamberlain said, but there were considerable adjustments to be made before France's net debt to Great Britain could be determined.

FRANC INCREASING IN VALUE
IN PARIS MONEY MARKET

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, May 19.—Another marked decline in foreign currency occur-ing in the Paris market this morning.
The pound sterling, quoted at 48 francs and the American dollar at 12 francs 50 centimes.

Yesterday's closing quotations were 53 francs for the pound and 13 francs 24 centimes for the dollar.
A high official of the Bank of France today stated his belief that the decline in exchange meant the beginning of a return to the old equilibrium, ruled by the law of supply and demand. He considered that the decrees prohibiting importations of luxuries from England and the United States was the starting point and other reasons were the results of the conference, where the settlement of the German indemnity question began to take definite shape. The French business world becoming for the first time confident that Germany would pay something of her debt.

INSPECTORS TRAP POSTAL CLERK WITH TEST LETTERS

Henry A. Glen of 3721A Gravois avenue, a clerk in the main postoffice at Eighteenth street and Clark avenue, was arrested today when at work and is held on a charge of removal of money from letters.

For some time business firms have complained of thefts of money from their mail, the complaints covering as many as a dozen letters in one delivery. Postoffice inspectors watched for some time without success and additional inspectors were assigned to the investigation.

At the time of his arrest Glen had in his possession two decoy letters which had been placed in the mail by inspectors. One contained $3 and the other $2. He also had two letters containing money which had been deposited in the mail in the regular course of business. He admitted to the inspectors that he had been taking letters containing money in the last month, but said that he obtained only $15. A warrant was issued against him.

Glen's wife and baby died several months ago and recently he asked to be transferred to another city.
This was not granted.

Dear Rodin,
Yes, I am in the Army now, and here at Camp
Vail, learning telegraph operating and telephone and telegraph repeater work. I like the life and I really believe I am fitting myself for a good paying job when my enlistment is up.
The work is laid out so that it reaches the high-average man and you don't have to be a highbrow to start in.
The school now has ten commissioned instructors, three consulting engineers from civil life, and twenty-four non-commissioned instructors and eighteen privates.
I am a private myself but I can be promoted up to one hundred and five dollars a month, all practically clear money, for everything you need is free.

Dear Sir: In response to your suggestion we have inquired into the character of the training given at the vocational school which the United States Army has established at Camp Alfred Vail, New Jersey.
We find that the courses in practical mathematics, electricity, magnetism, fundamental telephone work and telegraph operating are practical and conducted upon such a thoroughly preliminary training for men desiring to enter the telephone business.
We are calling to the attention of the operating companies associated with this Company, the fact that men who have taken this preliminary training will be available for employment as they return to civil life, and we are recommending to their favorable attention such of these men as have a discharge bearing the endorsement of either "Very Good" or "Excisuccessfully completed the course.

SCRUBWOMAN HURT IN FALL DOWN ELEVATOR SHAFT

Mrs. Minnie Curtis, 29 years old, a negro scrubwoman in the Chemical Building, Eighth and Olive streets, was seriously injured in an elevator accident there at 11:45 a. m. today when she fell from the third floor to the bottom of the elevator shaft at the ground-floor level. She was waiting for an elevator to take her to the fourth floor when an elevator car operated by James Haskell, a negro, reached the third floor on its down trip. Haskell afterwards said that he stopped and opened the door of his car, intending to accommodate Mrs. Curtis by taking her to the fourth floor. At the same time, he said, he noticed that he had passed a passenger at the fourth floor and he started up without closing the door. Mrs. Curtis had started to enter the car. His sudden ascent threw her out and into the shaft. She is at the negro city hospital. There was a somewhat similar accident at 8 o'clock last night in the Walnwright Building, Seventh and Chestnut streets. Mrs. Lucille Endicott, 23 years old, of 3204 Carr street, a scrub woman employed in that building, stepped into the elevator shaft, believing the cage to be there, and fell 30 feet to the basement, suffering a fractured skull and jaw and internal injuries. She was taken to the city hospital.

TAX ON SHEEPSKIN AS A FUR ASSAILED

Heavy Garment Manufacturers Declare Classification Is Burden on Them.

Group meetings today occupied members of the International Association of Garment Manufacturers, in convention at Hotel Statler. The next general session will be at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Heavy garment manufacturers in their meeting discussed means of obtaining relief from a fur tax on coats lined with sheepskin. They contend that sheepskin is not fur and that the Bureau of Internal Revenue has erred in classifying it as such.

Factory administration, new types of machinery and new processes affecting garment mills were discussed by the factory superintendents. Questions of material supply will be discussed in the afternoon by the overall makers and athletic underwear manufacturers.

Officers will be elected tomorrow afternoon. Those nominated are as follows: Roy T. Vernon, Omaha, president; Stanley A. Sweet, New York, chairman board of directors; Warren V. Eaton, St. Louis, first vice president; Jacob W. Mack, Cincinnati, treasurer. Eight directors and 25 vice presidents for States of the United States and provinces of Canada represented in the Association, will also be elected.

The Association yesterday adopted amendments to its constitution creating the office of chairman of the board of directors, for which Stanley A. Sweet, retiring president, has been nominated. This office was created, directors said, because it had become necessary to divide the duties heretofore imposed on the head of the organization. Another amendment adopted increased membership fees in the Association from $30 to $50 a year.

Arthur T. Davenport of New York, chairman of the Association's Open Price Committee, reported to the convention that the committee was awaiting a ruling from the Federal Trade Commission laying down limits within which it can function, before deciding upon a policy for members of the Association to follow.

Davenport called attention to a recent order of the Supreme Court forcing dissolution of the American Hardwood Manufacturers' Association. Open Price Committee, he said, that it was the intention of his committee to stick to the practices of true open-price procedure as soon as the limits are defined.

He said that the function of open-price committees is to exchange trade data to the end that price changes upward and downward be achieved by easy stages, rather than by hysterical ascents and drops.

President Sweet in his address to the association, said that the high cost of provisions is due to the easy flow of money which has prevailed for the last year, and the inability of food production to keep abreast of the demand.

"The general public is looking for a drop in prices," he said, "and the supplier of commodities is also anxious to have lower and more stable measures of values, for he fears the result of sudden weakness, not only for his own selfish profit, but for those dependent upon him for employment. He must so regulate his policy as to continue producing and yet avoid disaster through sudden change of attitude by the buying public, upon whom his business depends."

Peetus J. Wade, president of the Mercantile Trust Co., in an address at the luncheon at the Statler at noon yesterday, said that the Interstate Commerce Commission must break the traffic jam which exists throughout the country. If business is to escape serious dangers, he estimated that merchandise valued at $1,000,000,000 is tied up in transit.

VALUATION OF ROADS PRESENTS PROBLEMS

Commission Must Have Basis for Rate Making, but Survey Is Not Complete.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—One of the intricate problems involved in carrying out the new transportation act is that of arriving at a valuation of the railroads as a basis for rate-making by the Interstate Commerce Commission. With this problem the commission is now wrestling. It is given broad discretion by the act, which prescribes no set method of procedure, but directs only that rates shall be fixed to provide a certain return on the "aggregate property value" of the roads.

There has been in progress since 1914 a valuation of the railroads under the La Follette valuation act. Judge C. A. Prouty is the director of this work. As many as 1500 employees have been engaged at one time in appraising land and equipment values and delving into the books of the roads. The staff now numbers 900. The field work on this survey has been nearly completed, but months will yet be required to assemble the data. A final report is not expected before the end of 1921. Though Congress, in passing the valuation act did not state the specific purpose in view, it was generally assumed that the result would furnish an authoritative basis for rate-making.

In the absence of any such basis at present the commission is compelled to rely on its own experience, on the testimony of carriers and shippers given at hearings, on such information from the Prouty survey as is now available, and the "book values" reported by the roads in uniform accounting forms prescribed by the commission. The whole subject is now under study, and members of the commission themselves cannot say what will be the final basis agreed upon.

LAST DESCENDANT OF SURGET, SOUTHERN INDIGO KING, DIES

Body of James Surget Borne to Family Burying Ground at Natchez, Miss., by Old Negroes.

By the Associated Press.

NATCHEZ, Miss., May 19.—With the death of James Surget, the last male descendant of one of the famous indigo kings of the South has passed away.

In 1782, Pierre Surget obtained a plantation by Spanish grant and planted indigo. Indigo was being grown extensively in Louisiana at that time and found ready market. The Surget fortune soon was made and many years afterwards the little town of Cherry Grove came into existence on a part of the plantation. It was there that James Surget was born and died. He left a daughter.

Although 84 years old, James Surget never rode in an automobile nor used a telephone. A breeder of thoroughbred race horses and a devotee of racing, he boasted that he never bet a dollar.

The casket containing his body was, at his request, borne to the family burying ground by old negroes, former slaves to the family.

In every line there is just ONE best

There was a time when women did not understand electric washers—did not know that some wash clothes quicker and better than others—did not know what questions to ask to judge superiority and satisfaction.

But that time has passed. The sweeping popularity of the A-B-C has established IT as the standard.

Let the operating principles of the A-B-C be your yard stick.

A-B-C Super Electric

America's Leading Washing Machine

Why Careful Buyers Choose the A-B-C

because—it employs the most thoroughly practical, efficient and economical washing principle. Its cylinder reverses after each revolution. It is the only washer that combines every advantage of both the "cylinder" and the "oscillating" or rocker principles of operation.

because—it is the only absolutely safe washer. All moving parts are enclosed, thereby avoiding every possibility of soiling or tearing clothes, or of injury to operator, children or household pets.

because—its electrically operated wringer swings all around and locks in any desired position. No washer is 100% efficient without this feature.

because—it washes clothes quicker than any other washer made. Its cylinder revolves 22 times per minute, forcing suds through the clothes 44 times each minute.

because—it is the most quiet-running washer on the market. No noise, shock or jar when cylinder reverses. All you can hear is the slight hum of the motor.

because—it has a 500% over-size motor—4 horsepower; most makes use 1/2 horsepower.

because—it has been manufactured for ten years and is thoroughly perfected.

because—it is the most attractive in appearance—a real ornament in any home. Swinging wringer lifts right out leaving table top.

because—it has been tested and approved by The Good Housekeeping Institute.

because—it is manufactured and guaranteed by Altofer Bros. Co., at Peoria, Ill., who were pioneer washing machine makers, and now rank the world's leading makers of electric and power washing machines.

Special Announcement!

WASHINGTON U. GIRLS
IN "AS YOU LIKE IT"

Interesting Outdoor Production Is Given by All-Feminine Cast in Forest Park.

There were upwards of 100 Rosalinds, instead of one, in the Washington University production of "As You Like It" last night at the Municipal Theater in Forest Park. All the male parts, from Orlando and Charles the wrestler to foresters and shepherds, were taken by girl students, who braved it in doublet and hose and twittered in piping treble from the midst of mustachios and beards. Except for a corps of men students serving as scene shifters, the only representative of the declining sex connected with the production was Prof. W. Roy Mackenzie of the English department, who acted as director.

The result was to invest the performance with a delicate feminine grace not unsuited to its exquisite and poetic character. Rosalind's impersonation of a swaggering gallant could not seem unnatural when all the male roles were taken by women. The universal youthfulness of the cast created a keen charm of freshness and enthusiasm, such as is rare in professional undertakings. As a representation of Shakespeare's comedy, the enterprise had many pleasing merits. The big cast of some 200 was handled smoothly, the only complaint being due to the prolonged delays between scenes. The action was interspersed with dances of variegated character, and with music, both vocal and instrumental, the latter supplied by an orchestra of 20 under Henry J. Falkenhainer. The costumes worn by the principals were the handsome ones used in the Margaret Anglin production of the same play some years ago, and special garbs were designed for the different choruses. The new lighting towers on either side of the stage, displacing the batteries formerly perched in trees, were put into action for the first time, with excellent effect.

Declaration Is Excellent.

But the outstanding virtue of the performance was the skill with which the lines were delivered. Not only was the enunciation ringing and remarkably distinct, but the placing of accent and modulation was such as to throw into graphic relief the meaning of the text. This excellence was not confined to a few actors; it was spread uniformly through all the speaking roles, and reflects much credit upon Dr. Mackenzie's coaching. Among the principals chief honors went to Miss Mae Green, as Orlando, and to Miss Mignon Rosenthal, as Rosalind. The former brought to the part of the much-tried hero a certain grave and modest nobility of demeanor which made the role very sympathetic, and her elocution was the best of the evening. Miss Rosenthal mirrored in sprightly fashion the quicksilver moods of the heroine, and the teasing scenes of the pair in the wooing episodes were charmingly done. Miss Green and Miss Pauline Annin, as Charles, staged a realistic and muscular wrestling act, extending it to three falls instead of the single one of the play. When Orlando finally put Charles on "her" back with a scissors-hold, there was loud applause.

Miss Florence Walters, as the melancholy Jaques, presented a original philosopher, who declaimed "All the world's a stage" with ineffable coxcombry and self-satisfaction. Miss Dorothea Burbach was an impish and mischievous Touchstone, and spoke the clown's jests so as to bring out their points. Miss Henrietta Lichtenstein was a boisterous Audrey, with the rustic maid's slowness of wit acted to the life. Miss Estelle Niemann, as Amiens, sang the lyrics of the play, and Miss Ida Parker was the mining monsieur, Le Beau.

Others in the Cast.

The other roles were well assigned, as follows: Oliver, Miss Hilda Schroeder; Celia, Miss Edith Lange; Duke Frederick, Miss Adele Unterberger; Silvius, Miss Charlotte Coombe; Corin, Miss Lillie Pattiz; the exiled Duke, Miss Jean Wertheimer; Adam, Miss Louise Jamison; Phoebe, Miss Helen Poertner; William, Miss Faith Nickells; Jacques de Bois, Miss Ida Parker, and Hyacinth, Miss Helen Kammerer. The audience was numerous and appreciative. The production was given by the Women's Council of Washington University for the benefit of the teachers' endowment fund.

HOWELL'S $165,000 GOES TO HIS SON AND DAUGHTER

Author in Codicil Revoked $6000 Bequest to Sister and Left $250 With His Love.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, May 19.—The will of William Dean Howells, author, who died May 11, was filed for probate yesterday. His estate consists of $75,000 in real property and $90,000 in personal property. The residuary estate, which includes almost the entire estate, is divided equally between his son, John Mead Howells, and his daughter, Mildred Howells, both of this city. Howells left his gold watch, of which he says in his will, "my wife and I bought it in 1863 with our joint earnings," to his grandson, William White Howells, to whom also he left $1000 in cash. He bequeathed $250 each to Samuel D. Howells of Washington, D. C., and Anne T. Howells of Ottawa, Canada.

In the main body of the will, drawn May 26, 1910, he left $6000 to his sister, Aurelia H. Howells. In a codicil executed Feb. 15, 1918, he revoked this bequest and left her $250 "with my love."

PALMER FIGHT SPLITS GEORGIA DEMOCRATS

Second Set of Delegates Named After Smith-Watson Force Controls Convention.

By the Associated Press.
ATLANTA, Ga., May 19.—Georgia Democrats will send two sets of delegates to the San Francisco convention. After supporters of Senator Hoke Smith and Thomas E. Watson had united their forces and thus gained control of the State convention, delegates pledged to A. Mitchell Palmer last night elected a Palmer delegation and announced they would contest for seats in the national convention. Palmer obtained a plurality of county votes in the recent State-wide primary over Watson and Smith, who finished in the order named.

Not only did the Smith-Watson forces succeed in keeping the State delegation from going instructed for Palmer, so-called administration candidate, but they put the convention on record by resolutions as unalterably opposed to the League of Nations covenant and as refusing to endorse the administration of President Wilson. They also adopted resolutions advocating free press, free speech and asking repeal of all espionage, sedition and conspiracy laws passed during the war.

Earlier in the session the majority faction had refused to re-elect Clark Howell of Atlanta, a Palmer supporter, as national committeeman, naming instead W. C. Venable of Moultrie. Later efforts by the minority to have the convention go on record as approving the Wilson administration and the League of Nations covenant with reservations "that may not be destructive" were defeated and the majority adopted resolutions flatly declining to do either.

When the elections of delegates was reached Smith supporters, proposed that the delegates to the national convention be divided equally among the three factions, but this the Palmer men refused to accept. Then by agreement the Smith-Watson group were designated as the "original" or convention delegates and the Palmer group referred to as the "substitute list." The vote showed 234 for the "original" group and 142 for the "substitute" group. After adjournment of the regular session the Palmer delegates remained in the hall, formally organized, and voted to send their own delegates to San Francisco. Clark Howell was named national committeeman for the State.

G. O. P. 'REGULAR' SLATE LEADS IN PENNSYLVANIA

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—In complete returns from yesterday's primary election for all parties in Pennsylvania indicated that all but one of the slated candidates of the regular Republican State organization for delegates at large are leading. There were 15 candidates. Of those not on the regular slate, W. Freeland Kendrick, who was supported by the Vire wing of the G. O. P. in Philadelphia, ran strong in Eastern counties. Organization leaders predicted that the upstate vote would elect the regular 12. Among those on the regular slate were United States Senators Penrose and Knox, Gov. W. C. Sproul, Mayor Rabcock of Pittsburgh and Mayor Moore of Philadelphia.

The regular State organization claimed the election of nearly all its 64 district delegates. While the election laws provided for a presidential preference primary, only one name, that of E. R. Wood, a retired Philadelphia business man, appeared on the Republican ballot and received a light vote. There were scattering votes for other candidates written on the ballot.

Attorney-General A. Mitchell Palmer was the only candidate for President on the Democratic ballot. At the eleventh hour the Bonniwell faction urged its followers to write in the name of W. G. McAdoo and a considerable number of Democrats did so.

An interesting contest was that for Democratic national committeeman. Returns from 1705 districts out of the 7118 showed Joseph F. Guffey of Pittsburgh, supported by Attorney-General Palmer, to be leading Eugene C. Bonniwell, who is heading the opposing faction by 529. The vote so far in totals: Guffey, 11,937; Bonniwell, 11,358.

United States Senator Penrose had no opposition for renomination to the Senate. On the early returns the Palmer leaders claimed that virtually all their 76 national delegates were successful and that their entire State ticket was nominated over that placed in the field by the Bonniwell group. They also claimed that the Democratic State Committee would be controlled by Palmer and his friends.

A long ballot slowed up the count everywhere.

HER WEDDING TO BE QUIET AFFAIR TONIGHT

Miss Mildred Orthwein

Plans for Large Event Changed Because of Illness of Miss Orthwein's Father.

A WEDDING of importance will be solemnized this evening when Miss Mildred E. Orthwein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Orthwein of 15 Portland place, becomes the bride of Arnold George Stifel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman C. Stifel, 5405 Delmar boulevard. Preparations had been made for a large wedding, but owing to the recent illness of Miss Orthwein's father, the invitations were recalled and the guests for the ceremony and the wedding supper that will follow will be limited to the immediate families and a few close friends. The Rev. Dr. Day will officiate at 7:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Orthwein will have her two nieces, Miss Helen Helmsler of Chicago, and Miss Marguerite Orthwein, as her attendants and her brother, Percy J. Orthwein, will serve as best man. Her small nephew, William Orthwein III, will be ring bearer. The bride's attendants will wear frocks of cream lace over slips of pale pink chiffon and will carry bouquets of pink sweet peas and roses. The bride's gown is of heavy white satin trimmed with duchess lace. The court train which falls from the shoulders is lined in silver cloth, veiled in flesh georgette. Her veil will be arranged in a cap effect, held to the head by a tiny wreath of orange blossoms and will be weighted at the bottom by a bow knot of orange blossoms. She will carry a shower of orchids and lilies-of-the-valley.

Mr. Stifel and his bride will pass their honeymoon in the East and will be at home at the Hotel Buckingham after June 15.

Since her debut several seasons ago the bride has been one of the popular belles of society and is an active member of the Junior League. She was educated at Mary Institute and at Briarcliff School in the East.

Social Items

Mrs. Earl M. Clark of Oakwood Court, London, England, who was formerly Miss Ruth Le Cron, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. N. Le Cron, of this city, is the guest of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Kurtz of 6007 Enright avenue. Mrs. Clark arrived from New York Monday, and will remain a fortnight.

Miss Jane Watkins has chosen Wednesday, June 16, as the date for her marriage to Francis Thatcher Cutts, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cutts of 12 Aberdeen place. The ceremony will be solemnized at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. William H. Moulton, 8227 McPherson avenue, with whom she resides. Miss Rachel Watkins will attend her sister as maid of honor, and will be the only attendant. Miss Watkins is a sister to Mrs. James T. Pettus of 41 Kingsbury place.

Among the St. Louisans who expect to go to Biddeford Pool, Me., this season are Messrs. and Mrs. John Dwight Filley, Russell Gardner Jr., Samuel McPheeters, James H. Wear Jr., Thomas K. Niedringhaus and Walter McKittrick.

Mrs. Pauline H. Brunswick of 5754 Kingsbury boulevard will be at home informally Sunday evening, from 8 to 11 o'clock, in honor of the confirmation of her daughter, Miss Minnette Brunswick.

Angela Francesco's pupils of the Visitation Convent held their closing exercises today at the Convent. The senior classes appeared in interpretations of "The Violet Rondo," "The Wood Nymph Revel," "The Rose Vendors" and the "Snow Drop Caprice" while the lower classes gave Old English, Dutch and Irish folk dances in appropriate costumes. The intermediate grades gave the minuet in Colonial costume.

Alumnae from years extending back as far as 1860 will be guests at the "homecoming" of Lindenwood College, next week, beginning with the alumnae reception Wednesday afternoon, May 26, from 4 to 6

Thirty Feet of Danger

The intestines bend and twist and turn on themselves—more than thirty feet of them—and when food waste clogs them up, irritating and dangerous poisons are formed and carried by the blood through the system.

Remove this food waste regularly with Nujol—the modern method of treating an old complaint.

"Tiz" draws out the acids and poisons that puff up your feet. No matter how hard you work, how long you dance, how far you walk, or how long you remain on your feet, "Tiz" brings restful foot comfort. "Tiz" is magical, grand, wonderful for tired, aching, swollen, smarting feet. Ah! how comfortable, how happy you feel. Your feet just tingle for joy; shoes never hurt or seem tight.

WOULD SAVE CERVANTES' HOME

Spaniards Object to Changing Famous Hotel in Toledo.

TOLEDO, Spain, May 19.—Protest has come from every city in Spain against the proposal to modernize the famous hotel in Toledo where once lived Cervantes, the author, who "laughed Spain's chivalry away" in "Don Quixote."

Many academies and art organizations demanded that the original character of this resort of Spain's great writer be preserved.

Mrs. Capper's Mother Dies.

TOPEKA, Kan., May 19.—Mrs. Esabelle Crawford, widow of Samuel Crawford, second Governor of Kansas, and mother of Mrs. Arthur Capper, wife of United States Senator Capper, died here late last night. She suffered a stroke of paralysis Thursday. Mrs. Crawford was 72 years old, and came to Kansas in 1855. In 1866 she was married to Gov. Crawford.

Miss Stimson to Address Nurses.

Miss Julia Stimson, chief nurse of the United States Army Corps, will speak tonight at the graduation of a class of 57 from the Washington University Training School for Nurses of which she formerly was head. ## EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application of two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

Many buy and sell by means of information gained by reading Post-Dispatch WANTS.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 19.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

Today's market for securities was again dominated by the unusual conjunction of an acute monetary strain, a far reaching blockade of traffic on the railroads and evidence that retail merchants are bending their energies to reduce stocks by cutting prices. On the Stock Exchange, the influences manifested themselves chiefly in an extensive decline in industrial shares, and noticeable weakness in railway stocks.

"It is an interesting commentary on the actual situation, that out-price sales at the retail stores seem to have called forth almost universally an eager response from buyers. The readjustment has not proceeded to the point where the purchasing power of the general community is affected. Merchants certainly are bearing in mind the prospect of a liberal supply of goods, and are reducing the output of the factories. It is an extremely complicated business situation.

Declines in the industrial stocks were extremely heavy, ranging from 5 to 10 points in a number of the active, speculative issues. Steel, steel manufacturing, motor and oil company shares were distinguished for their weakness.

When a stock ordinarily as well maintained as United States Steel broke more than 3 per cent to the low, it was a sign of things to come. The decline to a smaller degree, though reaching lost more than 3 points. There was no recovery of any consequence during the day, and the market closed near the lowest level. The Government war bonds also were down, the lowest level, though the break was as severe as yesterday's, the short term 4 1/2 making a slight recovery. The money rate was not a direct market influence, call loans being quoted at 7 per cent throughout the session.

Foreign exchange rates began the day by continuing their movement in favor of Continental Europe. German marks, which sold at 1 cent 1/2 in February and at 2 1/2 cents yesterday, got up to 2 1/2 today. In the case of France, the rate gained nearly a half cent over yesterday's closing, touching 7.60; but even at this figure our market failed to keep pace with the excited market at Paris, where the franc was valued at 8 cents in our money. Both in New York and Paris, however, there was a substantial reaction later in the day, the franc here actually falling below yesterday's final figure.

Situation Is Uncertain.

The rise in the value of French exchange is probably based on some degree on sound considerations, but prudent financiers view the enthusiasm in France over the prospect of reaching on the German indemnity bonds with misgiving. Discounting German bonds in this country is uncertain, to say the least.

"Price reductions in retail trade find no reflection in the course of the primary steel market, where inability to get raw materials is the dominant factor. The iron age today reports that the Pittsburgh plants are operating about 75 per cent of installed capacity, while at Youngstown the rate is below 50 per cent, while foundry iron has advanced $1 a ton and coke is up $12 and $13 a ton. The present natural stagnation in business, the review continues, is not accompanied by any price softening. Besides full order books, a slump in buying will be offset by the necessary gradual resumption of the mills, but on the other hand, finished products awaiting shipment in the Pittsburgh district are placed at 1,300,000 tons, while for the entire country the total is estimated at 2,000,000 tons."

Money and Exchange.

NEW YORK, May 19.—There were wide movements in Continental rates this morning. French advancing early to 7.60 and then followed by a reaction to 7.50. ## LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Labor in Living Costs.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I desire to compliment you upon your kindness in publishing in such detail the statistics as given to United States Railroad Labor Board by W. Jett Lauck, on behalf of the Standard Labor Organization on the railroads. The reason for this great expenditure on the part of the labor organizations is not only for the benefit of their membership, but also for the people at large throughout the country, who were not in a position to secure and promulgate this interesting information.

The presentation will refute these many statements, that the cause of increase in various articles is on account of the "high cost of labor." When each article which we must purchase is analyzed it becomes apparent that the cost of labor in the article is negligible.

In addition to the information compiled by Mr. Lauck, other very illuminating information was given to the labor organizations, and it has been shown that if the Labor Board went to the extreme of giving to each and every railroad employee throughout the United States a 100-per-cent increase in wages, it would only necessitate an increase in freight rates of 8.8 per cent. When we speak of freight increase, it is immediately looked upon as an added factor in higher cost of articles transported. It is interesting again to note that taking coal from Illinois territory to St. Louis as an example, if 25 per cent increase was granted in freight rates, this would mean in most instances an increase in rate of approximately 1 cent per ton, and in most instances about .09 per cent. Present rates run to about $1.15 per ton to St. Louis, and the increase to the highest rate would be about 27 cents per ton. When this increase would be applied to clothing, shoes, etc., it could not be applied to each article on account of the smallness of the actual increase. A short time ago a cartoon appeared in your paper which would tend to the belief that the Labor Board was not making progress. Allow me to state that they are making excellent progress, and the brotherhoods are well pleased with the fairness which has been manifested by the board's personnel. Yours truly,
W. E. SCHULTZ.

A "One-Way" Law.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
The letter of "Humane Auto Owner," which recently appeared in your paper, prompts me to ask what many are asking: Why not relieve the dangerous traffic congestion on all heavy traffic streets by making every street in St. Louis a "one-way" street? Have vehicles on Locust street going west only and parked only on the north side; vehicles on Washington avenue going east only and parked only on the south side, and the same arrangement on all traffic streets in St. Louis. That would relieve congestion and save thousands of lives, because pedestrians would then have only two directions to watch instead of four, which is an impossibility, as everyone knows.

Under present conditions the public streets are filled with autos on both sides and coming from all directions at once, so that accidents and deaths are bound to happen. St. Louis should lead the way in traffic regulation. A "one-way" law would simplify everything, the streets would look better and I am sure the responsible auto owners would approve such a law.

ANOTHER AUTO OWNER.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
The Post-Dispatch has ably and consistently urged the need of a new Constitution for Missouri, and this association is deeply appreciative of the sentiment created and fostered by the press in the interest of this progressive movement.

In your editorial of May 4, "A New Constitution by Initiative," you raise the question, referring to the proposed election of district delegates to a constitutional convention on a bipartisan plan and the election of 16 delegates-at-large, whether "the people under the initiative, can authorize a method of organizing the convention, which the General Assembly could not authorize?"

The initiative petitions now being circulated throughout the State by this association provide for submission of an amendment to article XV of the present Constitution. If adopted, this amendment becomes a part of the Constitution, and repeals any portion of the present Constitution in conflict with it. The General Assembly has no power at present to authorize the election of delegates-at-large to a constitutional convention, but the people have the right to change the Constitution by direct vote under the initiative. If the proposed amendment is adopted, the constitutional convention, when one is held, will consist of two delegates elected from each state senatorial district and 15 delegates-at-large. The same amendment provides for the submission of the question, "Shall a convention be held to revise and amend the Constitution?" at a special election in April, 1921, and each 29 years thereafter. If adopted, this becomes a part of the fundamental law of the State, and the General Assembly can legislate only in conformity therewith.

NEW CONSTITUTIONAL ASSOCIATION OF MISSOURI. W. M. Leabatter, Secretary.

A REPUBLICAN TRAP.

The country has the proof now that the Republican party is for peace. Has not its majority in the Senate, with the help of a few Democrats, passed a peace resolution?

To be sure, it is a sham peace resolution. It doesn't mean anything practical. It is an abandonment of our war associates, with whom we joined to make war for democracy and make peace with guarantees of liberty and justice. But it is a peace resolution. It has the name of peace and the brand of Republicanism.

Of course, the President will veto the peace resolution after the Republican majority in the House has passed it and this will be another link in the chain of carefully constructed evidence that the Republican party is for peace and the Democratic party, led by Mr. Wilson, is for war.

The Republican leaders didn't like the peace of Versailles. It had the Wilson taint; so by mutilating it they baited the President into defeating it rather than take the Republican reservations.

When the President vetoes the peace resolution then another link in the chain of evidence will be forged. "See," his Republican enemies will say, "he refuses to accept any kind of peace except his own kind of peace. He will take only the original Versailles peace treaty without any change, and he rejects a peace resolution."

Of course, all this measly maneuvering is based upon the theory that the people are stupid; that they take the stamp for the thing and cannot distinguish sophistry from logic. It is playing a desperate game of politics with civilization and justice and liberty and peace as pawns.

The whole thing is a trap for the President. So far, he has made the plays the Republicans want. But he can avoid the trap and defeat their purpose. When he vetoes the peace resolution he can outline what would be acceptable reservations that would not destroy the purposes of the treaty and the peace covenant. He can easily afford to make considerable concessions in order to save the main body of the peace covenant that makes for justice and peace and assure a workable League of Nations. He can thus curb the cruel devil of partisanship and force the Republican leaders either to prove their insincerity or accept the only practical and honorable plan of peace. It is Mr. Wilson's play now.

HONEST MERIT AT THE CITY HALL.

In a merit system examination for appointment as engineer of the Building Department at the city hall, a son of the head of the department obtained a rating of 89.5 per cent. Another man, not related to the departmental head, in fact, a former member of the Washington University faculty, obtained a rating of 90.5 per cent. Which of the two men gets the appointment?

Of course, under the usual conditions that dictate decisions in many public offices, the nonrelative would be fairly sure of the appointment. A sense of decency would ordinarily deter a man in whom the power of selection was placed from an arbitrary exhibition of favoritism toward a member of his own family. But the conditions governing decisions in St. Louis municipal offices are not the conditions that govern decisions generally in public offices. It is announced flatly that the son is to be given the job.

One of the very best descriptions yet given of the St. Louis Republican machine has been framed by one who is himself a Republican, J. L. Minnis, candidate for Senator. He says we have twin G. O. P. machines, one run by Circuit Clerk Nat Goldstein and the other by Mayor Kiel and John Schmolz. The average St. Louisan had not noted that it consisted of two parts. It generally shows a singular unity and the distrust of it that helped to defeat such meritorious projects as some of those included in the bond referendum is only one of many instances of how its existence results to St. Louis' disadvantage.

What incentive is given other competitors to enter a merit system examination in which a relative of any member of the machine is a participant? Mr. Minnis says the machine has grown very bold. It is more than that. It is brazenly audacious. It needs a club.

The sales of playing cards, it seems, have greatly increased since prohibition became effective. The resourcefulness of Satan must at times discourage our most valiant reformers.

THE OMAHA RIOT.

Omaha has staged an entertaining riot. Its promoters were the heads of the big retail stores. They started a war for business, resorting to the strategy once known as cut-throat competition. They slashed prices right and left. Trade-marked goods, the blue-ribbon quality of their class, were treated with the same indignity as was the nonregistered stuff. The dollar in Omaha was suddenly restored to that potency it possessed everywhere in the late incarnation which went thundering off the map in 1914.

Even as a spectacle, a mere renaissance flash in the pan, the Omaha riot is engaging. But it may be something more than that. Certainly the episode is no local issue, if one of Omaha's merchants is correctly quoted. They have known for some time, he says, that present prices could not be maintained.

much longer. The stringency in the money market made it impossible. Further, the loss in this wild sale can easily be borne because stocks can be replaced with goods at lower prices. In other words, the retreat towards normal has commenced.

This Omaha merchant, it is hoped, will prove a reliable prophet.

STALLED AT BUCK HILL FORD.

On the first day of the 400-mile tour, the train of 35 trucks which left St. Louis Monday morning was delayed for several hours at Buck Hill Ford, near De Soto. Some of the machines managed, on their own power, to wade the road which had become a river, and others had to be towed.

The condition encountered at Buck Hill Ford may have been extraordinary; to be accounted for by the persistent rains of this unusual season. But the fact is that no truck trip of any length, except over a picked route, could be conducted in Missouri without some such experience as this. Missouri is cursed with Buck Hill Fords of one kind or another, and one of the pressing obligations of this State is to iron out its Buck Hill Fords with good roads.

The day of advocating good roads, of elaborating their desirability, is gone. The time has come when the bad road must be gotten rid of as a matter of self-preservation. The cost of bad roads is prohibitive.

The United States has reached that transportation crisis which thoughtful newspapers have been predicting for years. Our railroads are inadequate to the country's requirements. The present freight congestion is not the result of incompetent Government operation and management which neglected to keep up the equipment. The country's business has outgrown the railroads' capacity, even though their equipment were at par. We must have supplementary transportation systems. We must have good roads.

Further, the good road is indispensable to the successful operation of the farm. No farm is complete that is not connected with its market by a good road. The American farmer is today complaining, and justly, of a shortage of labor which threatens to curtail production seriously and foreshadows a winter of disquieting possibilities. But the bad road is a permanent shortage of labor for the farmer; it is a permanent tax on the farm and the city alike, and country and city must unite to remove this blight.

Missouri must get rid of her Buck Hill Fords. We can't get rid of them by any piecemeal plan. County enthusiasm and enterprise here and there is admirable, but what Missouri needs is a State system of good roads that will bring to the farmers a new freedom.

The trucks stalled at Buck Hill Ford, near De Soto, is a conclusive argument for the $60,000,000 road bond issue.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

As politics makes strange bedfellows, so it also plays havoc with the esthetic grouping of Christian names conferred by doting parents or adopted in the affection of young manhood. A recent case serving to confirm the fact is that of Alexander M. Palmer, familiarly known as Alec Palmer after his election to Congress from a Pennsylvania district some years ago. With his elevation to the Attorney-Generalship of the United States we found him to be A. Mitchell Palmer, and now, as an aspirant for the presidency, all remembrance of the historic name of Alexander disappears in simple Mitchell Palmer.

But Mr. Palmer has lots of good company. It will be recalled that a somewhat obscure politician by the name of Stephen G. Cleveland became Sheriff of Erie County, N. Y., back in 1870. About the same time a practically unknown educator by the name of Thomas W. Wilson was teaching history in a Southern university. Later the one became President as Grover Cleveland, the other as Woodrow Wilson. Yet Stephen and Thomas were good enough names for anybody; they have far more personal appeal than Grover and Woodrow, and if the psychological demands of politics were consulted one would have expected these men to be known to history as Steve Cleveland and Tom Wilson. In discarding the more substantial name of Alexander it must be admitted that Mitchell Palmer is conforming to the successful practice of political onomatopoeia.

Closer to home we are not without other examples. Thus Dwight Filley Davis is fast becoming just plain Dwight Davis, which is a slight departure from the rule of dropping the first name. If form counts for anything, he should be Filley, or Fil, Davis. We observe, also, that Selden Palmer Spencer is likewise dropping the middle name, probably because of the suggestion of party irregularity in that family connection. In the Democratic ranks of senatorial aspirants Samuel Miller Breckenridge Long is more faithful to successful precedent in abjuring the name of his distinguished Presbyterian ancestor, Samuel Miller, and announcing himself simply as Breckenridge Long.

Yet the tinkering with one's name upon embarking in public life has some genuine practical advantages. In some situations where the signature is required daily on endless papers and documents, the physical burden of writing even the briefest name may become intolerable, and unquestionably this has prompted many an office holder to sacrifice the esthetic to the practical. In the office of President, particularly, a short signature is a necessity.

FANTELLETTE.

Of course, we're glad just-a-minute is going to the winds with Enos Mills. To help land some funny scappers from the mountain streams of Colorado. That is, we're glad for his sake. Because we know he's going to get a mighty lot out of life during that little escape from civilization. So we'll say: "Be a good boy; have lots of fun; And don't get wet feet." Because we're looking forward to the time when we can again drop in at his office and talk about Psychology, duck-shooting, Literature, the Ozarks, Politics and fishing. And, in shape, Slip a manuscript in between. The day's business. There's only one thing that leaves a pang within us. And that is—We're sorry we can't go along.

Sir: Your reminder that McAdoo put the boats back on the river is the sort of thing of which Presidents are made. He did, truly, and it would be the eighth wonder of the world if the Democrats of the Mississippi Valley were not for him. After all, that is the only claim made for any aspirant upon the Democratic side having anything to do with reconstruction, and we need to be reconstructed worse than we need to be saved from any of the bugaboos bothering people like Hiram Johnson and Leonard Wood. Reconstruction is the whole case for Hoover, whom the Democrats would have been glad to make President, but whom the Republican party, which must first be reconstructed itself before it will nominate a reconstructionist, renounces. McAdoo remains. Beyond him are only Palmer, the deportationist; Cox, of whom we know nothing; Bryan, the eleventh commandment; and Edwards, the political highball. In comparison with all those McAdoo, who put the boats back on the river—undoubtedly the beginning of industrialism in the Mississippi Valley—looks providential.

Sir: Discussing rising costs at a luncheon the other day, Melville Wilkinson, head of a big department store, told a story more or less "on" himself.

"I live on a farm," he said, "and the man and the wife who employ me to run the place are provided with food, fuel and housing by me. The other day the man came to me and said, 'I want an increase in my salary on account of the high cost of living.'"

R. G. B.

Someone has sent us a pamphlet showing that the cost of living descended throughout the period from the end of the Civil War to the beginning of the world war, a matter of some fifty years. However, that was before Omaha, which will stand only so much, was big enough to accelerate the decline.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading public newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

INTERNATIONAL IRRITATION.

From the New York Times:
SIR HARRY JERRY ROBINSON is over here collecting material for a "Fourth of July Supplement" to The London Times. Professionally he is so enthusiastic about us that he describes himself as in spirit more than half American. But whatever may prove to be the effect upon the British lion of his freer crackers in The Times, his present words of cheer sound like the explosion of a bomb beneath the tail feathers of our national bird. Sir Harry does not like it that his New York taxiway paid $2.50 for his ride, and exclaims that we are "too beastly rich." He says that Americans were "never so unpopular in Europe" as today and tells us flatly that the "because" the world recognizes the United States as the great war profiteer. When he said all this he doubtless smiled; but no ripple of that mirth survives in cold type. M. Maurice Casanave, in his own person the most tactful of High Commissioners, is afraid that we suspect the French of not intending to pay their debts. The true stress of his remarks doubtless fell upon the figures which he adduced to illustrate the really marvelous recovery of French finance and industry. Dr. T. Iyemaga of the East and West News Bureau tells us of our many "abuses and scandals" against our neighbor in the western ocean, and declares that certain of our laws are "out of harmony with every principle of American democracy." Even Col. Frederick Palmer, most patient of oil-poolers upon troubled waters, is reported primarily as saying: "The source of the present international irritation is that there are not enough spoils to go round in the late heroic conflict, the heart of the world was found as never before, and in every crisis was found true and strong. Folk of many races and languages found that in spirit they were brothers. They are so still. Two things only are needed to ally all petty broils, and at heart these truths are one—honest work and a liberal exchange of the product. Even small boys do not make faces when they have jack-knives to swap."

A PLEA FOR THE PASTOR.

From the Century Magazine:
UNDER the present system of church organization, two factors constantly work against the minister's power and opportunity to become the creative ethical and spiritual leader of his parish or community. These two things are, first, the increasing grind of administrative duties that the modern church throws upon his shoulders, and, second, the fact that he is expected to speak with the accent of authority and inspiration once or twice every Sunday to the same audience. These two facts of distraction and routine in time kill any prophet who is not an accepted proving the rule.

INDEPENDENCE OF EGYPT.

HERBERT ADAMS GIBBONS is the Century.
WE are told that it is impossible to grant independence, or even self-government to a "backward race," which is unable to manage its own affairs, much less defend itself against enemies from outside. This excuse for the present rate is given by many who admit frankly that it is the favorite plea of the imperialists. You may have answered their other arguments, but here they think they have you. They have, if you are a follower of the philosophy of Bernhard, Treitschke, and others who interpret historical evolution as inevitably limited by the law of force. Does Machiavelli ever say, "If so, part 1 of 'The Covenant of the League of Nations,' in the Treaty of Versailles, is one of the most brazen and shameless cloaks of hypocrisy that has ever been written. But if the League of Nations was conceived in sincerity, there is no in the world a possibility for the independence of the small nations."

GREEN LANTERNS

by MARY SYNON

NEITHER of us, Justin Terry nor I, remembered until afterward how the switch targets had shifted from green to red in the semaphore arms at the North Branch bridge while we watched over John Benedict's dead body; and yet there had been something balefully ominous in the sudden flash of the lanterns from emerald to ruby as we stood there in the storm, gazing at each other with the stupid astonishment of people who stumble upon death in the midst of life. So mechanical did the operation appear, however, so removed from human impulse, that we never thought to associate it with the drama of which it blinked into circumstance shoved us into a corner from which we had to grope back through every instant of those portentous moments. Then it was not we, but Kenneth Winkler, who found its significance in the chain of events that began for us when they ended for John Benedict.

The Sunset Trail Limited had gone by in a swirl of snow as I passed the gate of the Benedict plant on Carpenter avenue, a square distant from the station, and I knew that I had time enough to reach the local that follows the other train out of the terminal beyond the bridge. I had been coaching the Wednesday evening drama class at the Carpenter settlement, and I left in good season, since there is no later direct train to Glenwood, but I remembered, as I came by Doane street, that Rita Kubal had told me that Mrs. Foran was dead. I had not known her even as well as her husband, whom I had met once in a while in my comings and goings, for she was a strange, furtive creature, resenting her neighbors quite as much as she resented us settlement helpers. The Forans had lived in almost defiant seclusion, childless and friendless. The thought of the old man's loneliness in his grief rather than any feeling of acquaintanceship with him had turned me down to the shack by the river.

Had I not known the neighborhood quite as well as I knew Glenwood, where we Hagars had lived since Natalie and I were children, I might have drawn back in terror from the darkness of Doane street. Carpenter avenue is forbidding enough on those nights when the Benedict plant is plunged into darkness, but occasional motor and street car pass, and there are always the broad bands of lights from the settlement windows and the narrow stream from the watchman's box at the gate of the plant. Doane street, however, plunging through lumber yards to end at the river, is a blind alley so unlighted that only the whiteness of the swirling snow guided me toward the Forans' shack.

Through one of the windows, as I came abreast the house, I saw the gleam of tapers. I tried the door and found it locked. I knocked upon it, but no one answered. I turned away with the thought that Mrs. Foran in death, as she had in life, kept out the little world of her neighborhood. It was not the way of the poor, and since comradeship is one of the compensatory blessings of poverty, I sighed over the pathos of the old man who de-

"When he said, 'Don't look, Edith; it's Benedict,' an icy hand closed over my heart. I stood stupidly staring while the semaphore signal lights changed color."

All thought of the Forans went from my mind, swept like flashes in the growing gale, however, as I went down the long platform of the railroad station. The Carpenter station is deserted at nightfall and used only by work-related commuters, who signal the few trains that stop there. With a single oil lantern hanging before it, the place has the aspect of some little way station in the West, for all it is set in the heart of a city's factory district. In the three years of my work at Carpenter House I had come to know it too well to regard it with fear, and I had swung down the full length of the platform before I glimpsed a scene which pierced me with a cold beyond the storm.

On the railroad toward the bridge a man bent over a huddled heap. Something within me kept saying that the heap was a dead man. It said, too, although I tried to put away the thought, that the scene was not a casual accident. Tragedy brooded too near to be denied. But, with all my forebodings, I was not ready for my part. For, when I steeled myself to step from the platform and go down the track, the stooping man turned toward me. I was near enough to touch Justin Terry before I could see his face. Afterward it seemed strange to me that I never questioned his presence there any more than he questioned mine. But when he said, "Don't look, Edith. It's Benedict," an icy hand closed over my heart. I stood, stupidly staring, while the semaphore signal lights changed color.

"Is he dead?"
"Yes."
"How?"
"I don't know. The Sunset Trail struck him, I suppose."
"What can I do?"
"Go back to the gate and call the watchman."

I can't leave him here. We must get him off before the local comes."

I sped down to the street and stumbled through the snow toward the ribbon of light at the watch box. John Benedict dead—killed. Only those of us who had worked in the shadow of his great plant could be so numbed by his passing. It was as if the ship engines had stopped in the night without warning. For Benedict, ruthless, rugged, dominated the district as a monarch. Upon him depended lives and livelihoods. Ever since I had come to Carpenter House I had been forced into admiration of the man's energy, even as I had held hatred of his means and methods of using it. Only tonight the hatred had flamed anew when I had heard the gossip of his quarrel with Justin Terry. Rita Kubal, Benedict's stenographer, had told me the story as she had waited for her role in "The Shadow of the Glen." Terry was right," she said, "and Benedict was wrong. But he's so strong, Miss Edith, you forget how wrong he can be."

The epitaph was writing itself on my mind as I ran down the avenue. So strong—and to be snuffed out like a candle flame! So intent was I upon the thought that I came to the gate without noticing the limousine at the curbstone until a voice from it spoke to me as I pounded upon the sentry box. Then at my stammered words Benedict's chauffeur leaped from the car. "Killed!" he repeated. "Old Benedict killed! And on the tracks! What was he doing there? He left me nearly an hour ago and told me to wait. I thought he'd gone inside."

The watchman, summoned by our pounding, declared that Benedict had not gone into the plant. "He went out at 4 o'clock," he insisted, "and he never went back. Mr. Terry, the sales manager, left at a quarter to 10. He went off toward the settlement house. He's the last one out."

"He found Mr. Benedict," I said. He's there now."

The chauffeur and the watchman mounted the car, after helping me within, and in a moment we had come to the railroad. They rap up the stairs before me and had come to where Justin stood guard over the dead man when I arrived at the platform. Justin's cry halted me: "But it can't be! He's dead, killed, but not murdered."

"I think it's murder, Mr. Terry," the chauffeur was insisting. "See, his coat's cut right over his heart. A knife did that. And where's his overcoat? He had it on when he left the car. Sure, it's murder."

"It looks like it," said the watchman. "I'll send in a police call."

He passed me on the run, and I moved closer to Justin. "You'd better go home, Edith," he said. "I'd take you, only I must see this through. They'll want me as a witness."

"Won't they want me?"

"I hadn't thought of that. I shouldn't have let you go for the watchman. Otherwise you could be kept out of it." He began to pace the platform restlessly. As he passed me for the second time he stopped.

"I quarreled with Benedict this morning," he said. "The quarreling was nothing new. We did that once a week at least, but the occasion for this was different. He ordered me to do something—well, that I couldn't. We had it out, all over the office. Then I quit. I cleared up everything tonight. Queer, isn't it, the way things work out? If I'd waited till tomorrow—I wish I hadn't said all I did. I've worked for him five years, and—" He drew himself up from his meditations. "Oh, well, what is to be, will be. But I'm sorry."

"Who could have killed him, Justin?"
"Who knows? He had plenty of enemies, but I can't imagine one of them doing it. It may have been for money. He probably carried a wad of currency. He had that trick. And yet, a knife in the back—"

"But his family? Who'll tell them?"

He has no family. The only relatives of whom I've ever heard are distant cousins in Omaha."

"Is there no one to notify?"

"Parsons, the secretary, will know."

He went back to his pacing, apparently oblivious to the immediate problem of the manner of Benedict's death in his regret over having quarreled with the dead man. It was I who remembered the coming of the local and cried warning to the chauffeur. Justin sprang to help him bear the burden from the tracks. They had just succeeded when the train, unsignaled by the platform lantern, rumbled past us, leaving the three of us there with Benedict's body. Then, once again, the switch targets shifted from green to red.

Four officers, guided to the place by the watchman, came with a scurry of authority. One of them, McGrath, Justin called by name. "It's an awful thing," the policeman said, "the way these holdups are killing!"

"I don't believe it's a holdup," Justin said. "Benedict has been stabbed."

"Who found him?"

"I did."

"Was he dead?"

"Yes. I thought the train had struck him. It was passing as I came up the stairs. I saw something on the roadbed and ran toward it."

"Did you see anyone running away?"

"No one. I did not know it was murder until Lane, the chauffeur, and the watchman examined the body. His wallet is there, with $200 in it."

"And the lady?" He looked at me.

"Miss Hagar came up to take her train, the local that follows the limited. She found me just after I had discovered that the man was Benedict."

"I see." He gave an order to the other officers, then one to us. "You'll have to come with me to the station. He advised us."

We went, driven in Benedict's car, and with a strange sense of incongruity of our presence in it under the circumstances. At the police station a startled Captain put us through a routine of queries, then bade us hold ourselves in readiness for summons to the inquest. Afterward Benedict's chauffeur insisted upon driving us to Glenwood. "It's just as easy as going back downtown," he declared, and I accepted with a realization that he wanted to work off the nervous tension of the tragedy.

Johnny Chuck Has to Go to School

Will some one kindly please explain just why it is we try in vain to learn things we're obliged to do but yearn for those which are taboo?

Of course Peter Rabbit was greatly tickled to take Old Mother Nature's message to Johnny Chuck. He scampered straight over to Johnny's home as fast as he could go lip-perty-lip-lip, lip-perty-lip-lip. Johnny was sitting on his doorstep. He looked very lazy and comfortable and as if he hadn't a care in the world. Probably he hadn't. He didn't have just then. But they were not far away. They were headed straight for him and coming, lip-perty-lip-lip, as fast as a pair of long hind legs could bring them.

"Hello, Johnny!" cried Peter, as he came up quite out of breath. "You're going to school tomorrow morning?"

"I'm not!" snapped Johnny Chuck. "You are!" declared Peter.

"I'm not!"

"Who says I am?" Johnny glared at Peter, angrily.

"I do," chuckled Peter. "Can't you hear? I've been telling you so ever since I got here. You are going to school tomorrow morning. Old Mother Nature sent me over here to tell you not to fall to be there on time. So long, Johnny. I'll see you over there in the morning."

"I won't go!" declared Johnny, as Peter started for his home in the dear old Briar-Patch.

Peter said nothing, but all the way to the dear old Briar-Patch he chuckled. He knew that Johnny Chuck would not dare to disobey Old Mother Nature. As for Johnny, his day was quite spoiled. He grumbled and growled to himself. He didn't want to go to school. He didn't want to learn anything about his relatives.

He was perfectly satisfied with things as they were. The truth is he was already beginning to grow fat with good living and he was lazy. There was plenty to eat right near his own doorstep, and he hated the thought of going far for it. So he kept saying, over and over, that he wouldn't go to school the next morning, but all the time he knew right down inside just what Peter Rabbit knew—that he would.

Sure enough, the next morning just as Old Mother Nature was opening school, Johnny Chuck came waddling through the Green Forest. He didn't look at all happy and he didn't

"Who says I am?" Johnny glared at Peter angrily.

the better fitted he is to take care of himself and do his part in the work of the Great World. However, it wasn't for your benefit that I sent word for you to be here this morning. It was for the benefit of your friends and neighbors. Now sit up so that all can have a good look at you."

Johnny Chuck obediently sat up and, of course, all the others stared at him until he felt most uncomfortable. "You remember," said Old Mother Nature, "how surprised you all were when I told you that Johnny Chuck is a member of the Squirrel family. Happy Jack go sit beside Johnny, and the rest of you look hard at both of them and see if you do not see a family likeness."

Seeing Happy Jack Squirrel and Johnny Chuck side by side, Peter Rabbit saw at once that there was a sort of family likeness about them. "Why! Why-e-e! Johnny Chuck does look like a Squirrel!" he exclaimed.

The Man of It!

By Helen Rowland.

AREN'T men LIBERAL—and generous and broad minded—And all that? They never do anything by halves! They are no "pikers!" Once started in any direction, they keep right on going that way until they reach the limit.

For instance, Now that they are handing Women the vote, piece by piece (or state by state), they are simply overwhelming her with other honors, and privileges, and concessions—

And responsibilities! Now that man has at last been convinced that a woman has the ability to cast the ballot, He seems to think that she has the ability

To carve the chicken, Run the lawnmower, Hoe the garden, Clean his safety razor, Paint the piazza, Lock up the house, Wind the clock, Put out the cat, Run a typewriter, Mend the motor chair, Fix the lock, Kalsomine the kitchen, Stand up in a street car, Dress for in ten minutes, Carry her own traveling bags, Clean the flivver, Wash the dog, Punish the children, Browbeat the iceman, Bully the landlord, Water the lawn, set out the geraniums, foil the profligate, And climb to the second balcony, when she goes to the theater, And all this does not absolve her, of course, from counting the laundry, planning the meals, darning socks, wiping dishes, singing lullabies, And looking sweet, and fresh and dainty and kissable at breakfast! Or from going to church for the family, And trying to hang onto Heaven with one hand, while she holds onto her husband with the other! Or, from being bright, and cheerful, and soothing and charming when HE comes home tired and grouchy, evenings!

Or from—but there! A man never does anything by halves! He admits, at last, that Woman is not only his EQUAL—But a little MORE so! That's the man of it!

IS THIS YOUR TYPE?

By MARIE LA ROQUE.

Baby Face.

THE world, especially the feminine world, will never quite get used to the way that the baby-faced woman turns the admiration of certain types of strong-minded men. When a queenly, magnificent beauty like Diana of Poitiers captivates a king or two you can't wonder, but when a little baby-faced, doll-faced creature like Louise Rensse de Querouaille, gains first place among the favorites of Charles II of England, who made her Duchess of Portsmouth, then you can hardly wonder that women, and men, too, feel surprised.

It was Evelyn who wrote: "That baby face of thine and those black eyes Methinks should ne'er a hero's love surprise."

She was a simple baby-faced creature, with an infantile, high forehead, big eyebrows and curly hair. Her disposition was as babyish as her looks and it was through tears of jealousy, affections of sickness and real caprice that she wound herself around the heart of the Stuart King, and managed to hold her position as lady of the bedchamber to the Queen when she was openly ensnaring the fickle King with her babyish charms and kittenish fascinations.

What are the qualifications of the baby face?

Well, first perhaps you look at the mouth, which must be small and round and rosy, the lips pouting, giving the face a look of childlike wilfulness and gentleness. The eyes are round and seem large in comparison to the other features, while the lashes are long and turned up in childhood. The nose, of course, is small, preferably quite short. There is no need for classic regularity or Grecian moulding in the baby-face nose. The eyes are far apart and the brow is without wrinkles.

The actual shape of the face and contour of the forehead do much to create the baby face. In babyhood and childhood, though the forehead is usually high, the bulk comes in the upper part of the forehead and there is never any of that heaviness directly over the eyebrows that indicates executive force and organization. Possibly this is because the child, no matter how active his little brain may be, has no such abilities. He is still lacking in his impressions of the world, thinking things out in his baby brain, and this process apparently goes on in the upper regions of his forehead.

The man or woman who retains this baby mould of forehead may be of high mentality, but you will notice that he or she will achieve rather through reflection and introspection than through executive or organizing powers.

THE HOUSEWIFE'S SCRABOOK.

It is advisable to draw a thread piece of cheesecloth to form a hard before cutting thin materials, such as chiffon, georgette, lawn, etc. If this is not done the material has a tendency to creep away, and the result is usually an uneven edge.

Keep the old black stockings for cleaning dark garments. When a cleansing fluid is rubbed on dark fabric with a white cloth a white fuzz often appears that proves most annoying.

HOME ECONOMICS

By Mrs. Elizabeth Kent.

The Sand Box.

THE constructive instinct is one of the most valuable of the human armory of instincts. It is a source of good to the world and to its possessor, being, like mercy, twice blessed. The infinite fascination of sand as a plaything for children is evidence of the strength of this instinct, and there is no more wholesome outlet for it than a sand box. Happy hours are the child's right and are our best gift to his childhood.

Who that has watched children on the beach by the sea, or has been a child there himself can be reconciled to the thought that thousands of children never have sand to play with? Ever so many more of them might have it than do. In the country, in the suburbs, in the city lot of any size at all, there may be an old packing box, with a sound bottom, perhaps four feet square by foot, deep, filled with clean sand. A board across each end, upright posts at two corners, with a pulley on each, and a cord and a pail, make a simple equipment for uncounted happy times. If there is no ground space available at all, a corner of a veranda, or upper balcony may well be devoted to this use, and indeed many a wise dweller in flats has found it worth her while and her patience to have a small box of sand in the house.

A box is better than a loose pile of sand on the ground, for many reasons. It conserves the sand, which soon disappears if left to mingle with the garden earth. It keeps the sand clean, dries it quickly after rain, and airs it well, so that it has no sour smell of earth. The boards across the ends give an excellent vantage point from which to play, and provide shelves for pie, cakes and castles.

Sometimes a neighborhood of city dwellers have a small city square where their children congregate. It is well worth while for them to continue to put in one or more good-sized sand boxes there.

It is much easier to take care of a busy, contented child than of an unoccupied, restless one. In the long run the child whose right to occupation, that is, to the right kind of play, is recognized, and provided for, makes less of a mess in the house, and in his mother's soul, not to mention his own, than the child who is treated as of less importance than the rooms he lives in and the things that surround him.

I had a quart—once on a time—
And knowing it was rather risky—
In fact a statutory crime—
To drink, or own, or harbor whisky,
When I was worn, or sad, or sore
And felt the need of stimulation,
I'd wait till dead of night to pour Myself a moderate libation.

And then the bell would always ring,
And when I answered, "Well, what is it?"
A voice would cry: "It's me—old thing
I've come to pay a little visit."
The voice was Bill—just passing by
He somehow kind of fell to thinking—
He hardly knew the reason why—
That I'd need help to do my drinking.

I've locked myself inside a room,
And feeling quite secure, proceeded
To lighten my abounding gloom
By taking something that I needed.
But always I would hear a knock,
Insistent and unheeding,
A husky hand would try the lock,
And Bill, I knew, was out there—waiting.

I've heard a scientist declare
That scent's the weakest of our senses.
The animals can beat us there,
Where ours leaves off, the dog's commences.
